ANOTHER MINE HORROR

Explosion of Fire Damp in Henry Clay Colliery, Near Shamokin, Pa.

Ten Miners Taken Out Dead---Fifteen Others Missing.

SHAMOKIN, PA., June 10.—This afternoon an explosion occurred in Henry Clay colliery, operated by the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company, near this place. The colliery had not been inspected for some time, but was always considered safe. It had the capacity for mining 8,000 tons of coal per month, and sixty-five men are employed in it. Conrad Dumphaser, the inside boss, went into an old working on the water level, when the explosion immediately followed, caused, it is thought, by the fire damp being fired, which communicated with the air from the water level into the slope below where the men worked. The miners in this section of the coal region not being accustomed to black damp, thought it was blasting powder that had been set on fire. They remained in the slope until almost overcome with black damp, and then starting to come up met the body of the after damp and fell senseless. The stronger men managed to get out, however, and gave the alarm to guide the others who followed, but on reaching the top of the slope they fell back completely overcome. John Hays, outside boss, on hearing the alarm, immediately went to their rescue. After proceeding about five hundred yards he fell face downward in a pool of water and was drowned. Enoch Mogneski was found drowned by his side. Eight men were brought out dead. There was no caving in of the mine, as first supposed, and there was no foul air in the ventilator. The accident resulted from old gas exploding in a deserted working.

Up to 10 P. M. ten dead bodies have been taken out. Many of the men from the surrounding mines came to render assistance. The excitement is intense; wives and children rushing to the scene of the disaster and finding their husbands and fathers either dead or gasping for breath, while others were eagerly watching the arrivals of friends on the slope wagons from below. There were fifty men in the slope at the time of the explosion, thirty-five of whom are known to have escaped and will recover.

Wm. Brown, a prominent coal operator at this place, fell down the Daniel Webster shaft this afternoon, one hundred and sixty-five feet deep. His leg was broken and he was otherwise severely injured.

Two Brothers Suffocated and a Third Narrowly Escapes.

EASTPORT, ME., June 10.—A sad accident occurred this morning at the gas-works. Repairs were to be made, and a young man named Hiram Lawrence went down into the gasometer to let off the water. The gas overcame him and he fell from the ladder into the water. His brother, Edward, went down to get him out, and he, too, was suffocated and fell. Another brother, James, tied a rope around his body and was lowered down, but had to be drawn up immediately. He was nearly dead when taken out, and now lies in a precarious condition. The others were dead when taken out. Edward leaves a wife and four children. Hiram was recently married.

It has been definitely ascertained that nine hundred and ninety-five barrels of coal oil was the full number burned at the fire on Sunday in Cincinnati. This was forty thousand gallons. CRIMES.

Man Murdered and Body Placed on the Railroad Track.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

WELLSVILLE, OHIO, June 10, 1873.

A man named Evans had a difficulty with another man between Irondale and Hammondsville, six miles west of this place, on the Cleveland and Pittsburgh Railroad, on Sunday night, both of the men being under the influence of liquor. Early Monday morning the engineer of a freight train going north observed what he supposed to be a bundle of rags on the track, but as he approached it he discovered it was a man but could not stop until his train had passed over him. On going back and arousing the neighbors in the vicinity they made an examination of the body and discovered that the man had been murdered and placed upon the track. Blood was dried upon portions of his body, and two bullets were found in the dried blood on the ground where the man lay and two bullet holes through his arms. His partner was arrested and gave contradictory statements of the affair, some of which point strongly toward his guilt. The doctors held a post mortem examination to-day over the body, but the result has not been announced. The body having been badly cut up by the locomotive, it will be difficult to arrive at a fair verdict.

Murderous Attack Upon a Colored Woman and Her Children.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

ZANESVILLE, OHIO, June 10, 1873.

At one o'clock this afternoon a brutal attack was made on a colored woman named Currie and her two children, one an infant two months old, by a colored woman named Mrs. Turner. Mrs. Turner struck Mrs. Currie with a gallon crock, breaking it over her head, and with the broken pieces attacked the eldest child, three years old. She then re-attacked the mother, cutting her severely. After beating her for some time with the broken pieces of crock she picked her up and threw her on the bed on top of her infant. Assistance came at this time and Mrs. Turner was arrested. Both children will probably die. Mrs. Currie, the mother, is badly hurt and disfigured.

The Murderer Stokes Granted a New Trial.

ALBANY, June 10.—The Court of Appeals were unanimous in their opinion granting Stokes a new trial. There are two opinions written. The charge is held to be erroneous on the point that the law presumes murder from the fact of killing, and calls on the prisoner to mitigate or justify. Also that there were errors in excluding the proof of the threats by the deceased to kill the prisoner; also error in permitting Mrs. Morse to contradict Jennie Turner in a collateral matter, which was called out on the cross examination of Jeannie, namely; As to whether she left Mrs. Morse's against her wish, and because the detectives were said to be after her soon after the homicide. There were other points discussed, but these are the principal ones.

When Stokes was informed of the decision of the Court of Appeals, granting him a new trial, he expressed himself well pleased, but added quickly and somewhat sadly, that the report might possibly be untrue, and the disappointment would be all the greater if such proved to be the case. His counsel, Mr. Dos Passos, relatives and friends, soon arrived at the Tombs, and there was a good deal of rejoicing among those interested in the favorable decision of the Appellate Court. Dos Passos says "Upon next trial we will prove to the satisfaction of the New York public that there has been a gross misapprehension of the case from the day of the tragedy, and that we will be able to establish the fact of his innocence by evidence of an overwhelming character." The bets on the decision are in favor of Stokes.

Mutilated Body Found on Railroad Track—Supposed to be Murdered.

ST. LOUIS, June 10.—A mutilated colored man, named Solomon Barnes was found on the track of the Chicago and Alton Railroad, about a mile below Brooklyn, opposite this city. Near by were evidences of a severe struggle, a club smeared with blood, and a bundle of clothing, from which it is supposed that Barnes was murdered and placed on the rail road track.

Sentenced to Imprisonment for Life.

CLEVELAND, O., June 10.—The trial of Robert W. Chamberlain for the murder of Geo. McConaughey on January 5th last, in Solon, Ohio, came to a sudden and unexpected termination yesterday afternoon. At the opening of the court in the afternoon the Prosecuting Attorney arose and said that in counseling with others interested in the trial he, although against his own private judgment, consented to ask for a verdict of murder in the second degree. On it being understood that the prisoner and his friends and his counsel would consent to such a verdict and that it would be satisfactory to all parties interested, the chief counsel for the defense then said that it was after mature consideration of all the circumstances connected with the case that this proposition had been advanced. Judge Paine then addressed the counsel, concurring in the proposition, which, he said, met his own views exactly. He had had doubts before as to the insanity of the accused, they were removed by the testimony brought forward in his defense. Taking into consideration all the circumstances, he was willing to share the responsibility of such a disposition of the case. With this understanding he gave the case to the jury, the latter retired, and after a very brief consultation returned and rendered a verdict of guilty of murder in the second degree. The Judge, thereupon, sentenced him to imprisonment in the penitentiary for life.

Railroad Train Thieves Caught.

BOSTON, June 10.—Plundering to a large extent has been going on for some time from the train from Boston on the Fitchburg Railroad, which induced the company to employ detectives. The result is the arrest of conductor Edward Prinder, engineer George Smith, fireman Napoleon Blood, and ex-conductors Fred. Hildreth and Frank Hanscomb. Other parties are suspected and their arrests threaten to follow. Prinder and Hildreth pleaded guilty and the former has been sentenced to one year in the House of Correction. The sentence of Hildreth is reserved. A large amount of stolen property has been recovered.

The New York Post says: The case of Bowles Bros. & Co. has come out of the Bankruptcy Court in better condition than their most sanguine friends ventured to hope. The official assignee, we are told, makes an offer to creditors of fifty cents on the dollar, which, according to law, releases the house from liability. The members of the house, however, have issued a statement to their creditors that they will pay the other fifty cents, and will come under obligations to do so when they have received their legal discharge. They propose, it is said, to speedily resume business.

The Grand Jury at New York have found an indictment of murder in the first degree against young Walworth, the parricide.

POLITICAL.

State.

The Harrisburg State Journal says: Frederick Carroll Brewster is proposed as a candidate for United States Senator, to take the place of John Scott, at the expiration of his term. We see no reason why Senator Scott should not be re-elected, and as Mr. Brewster, when he was Attorney General, had so much professional business on hand, as to be scarcely able to give more than one-tenth of the time to his official business for which he was liberally paid, we see no reason why he should be sent to the United States Senate, again to make official secondary to private duties.

General.

The West is in need of free trade—urgently in need of it—but as a political measure it cannot now, nor for a quarter of a century, be the animating principle of a great movement. There are a great many very substantial issues upon which the honest political elements of the country may unite, but free trade is far from being the chief.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

The Atlanta (Ga.) Sun (Alexander H. Stephens, Congressman elect) thinks there is more buncombe than wisdom in the remarks of the press concerning the impropriety of increasing the President's salary, as was done under the back salary grab at the last session. Is Aleck laying pipe for another grab when he gets his vote?

The self confident, or, at any rate, the self-asserting, prophecies that the Democratic party is not dead, and that it will survive all rivals, and triumph over all present and seemingly unconquerable obstacles, seem sometimes to be confirmed by discouraging events. In Texas that party has won a decided victory—such a victory as it aims at in every Southern State, at least. The Legislature of Texas, after a long struggle, has overthrown the common school system of that State. In justice to Gov. Davis, it should be said that the struggle was protracted by his opposition and veto during the winter. Finally the Legislature rallied strength enough to abolish the system, and Democracy has there a new lease of life.—Detroit Post.

General Garfield, having been invited to deliver an address before an agricultural society in his district, proposes to take as a topic the relation of corporations to future National politics. He is of the opinion that this topic will be as much of a key-note to the political future as slavery has been in the past. He does not think, however, that the Farmer's Granges, as at present organized, have met this question in a proper manner, or have sought to get a logical solution of the situation. He will endeavor to remedy this deficiency.

In Cincinnati the Liberal Republicans joined hands with the Democrats and assisted the latter to achieve a victory last spring. Of course the Liberals went into the arrangement on the profit and loss plan, expecting, if successful, to get a full share of the offices. The following lines, addressed by one Liberal to another, indicates that the Democrats, as usual, are not disposed to make a fair division of the spoils:

The smoke and din of battle, Jim,
From eye and ear have flown;
What was to be has come to pass,
And well by us is known;
The fruit of coalition, James,
By its weak side is seen,
For cattle of the old brigade
Are in the pasture green.

They came like flies in summer time,
From where no person knew;
They swarmed o'er ev'ry vacancy,
To old-time instincts true.
We're browsing round the edges of
The city's pasture green;
The picking's not exceeding rich,
But we're exceeding lean.

They meant to do the square thing, James—
Of that I have no doubt—
But early education put
Their late resolves to rout,
Their measure cloth with olden rule—
A rule of many lengths—
Which gives them a division, James,
About eleven-tenths.
Then their embrace we turn our face,
For self protection flee—
Democracy's Democracy,
And nothing else can be.

WASHINGTON.

The Monument at Annapolis,

IN MEMORY OF THE NAVY DEAD.

The Southern Claims Commission.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 10, 1873.

The Naval Monument at Annapolis.

Admiral Porter to-day received a letter from Franklin Simmons, American sculptor, dated at Rome, May 25, 1873, enclosing three photographic views of the statues to adorn the Naval monument to be erected at Annapolis in the grounds of the Naval Academy. The monument will be of the first quality of Carrara marble, and will consist of a raised dias, a pedestal, and pannelled surmounting block, upon which will stand two female figures eight feet high, one representing History recording the events of the war; the other America weeping for her fallen sons, her head resting on the shoulder of History. On the pedestal at the foot of the surmounting block stands another female figure seven feet high, representing Victory, with two laurel wreaths. At her feet recline two infant figures, one representing Neptune with the trident, and the other Mars with a Roman short sword. These figures are symbolic of the navy and the marine. The total height of the monument will be forty-two feet, and it will occupy a site in the grounds corresponding with that of the monument to the heroes of the war with Tripoli. It is an interesting coincidence that the Tripoli monument was designed by Commodore David Porter, the father of the Admiral, while the Admiral, the son, designed the monument to the slain of the late war. The cost of the work when completed will be twenty-six thousand dollars. The amount subscribed by officers, seamen and privates of the navy and marine corps was eight thousand dollars. This sum was judiciously invested by Admiral Porter, the Superintendent of the Association, and for five years has been increasing through the receipts of interest and small additional subscriptions. The amount, therefore, has swelled to nineteen thousand dollars. The monument will bear the inscription "In memory of the officers, seamen and marines of the United States who fell in defense of the union and liberty of their country, 1861-65." The panels will be appropriately embellished. A fifteen inch cannon ball will be placed on each corner of the pedestal. The dias will be ascended by five steps. Congress at the last session authorized the conveyance of the monument to the United States in a public vessel, to be landed at Annapolis free of duty. The monument will be finished and in position within two years, according to contract.

A Little Previous.

Members of Congress and official business have been considerably embarrassed by Postmasters not forwarding franked mails, under the impression that the bill abolishing the franking privilege went into effect on June 1st instead of June 30.

The War Claims Commission.

The Southern Claims Commission have suspended oral examinations until the second week in October, when they will resume and continue until the middle of November. They will make report of the operations of the year up to December 15, which will include about twenty-eight hundred cases. The Commission will resume oral examinations after January 1st, 1874. During the present summer the commissioners will occupy themselves in writing up. The office here, however, will be open during that time for transient business. A list is being prepared of all who have filed claims, giving residence and amounts. This list will be distributed among ex-officers of the army, with the request to forward information. Many frauds have already been detected in this manner.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 10, 1873.

ANNEXATION STORY EXPLODED.

It was recently stated that two delegates from the government of Guatamala, accompanied by the Minister from that country, called on President Grant, urging the annexation of that republic to the United States. There is the best authority for saying that the Minister of Guatamala and San Salvador knows nothing of any Central Americans who may have seen the President with the alleged or any other object. He has not been in Washington since the 15th of April last, and to his knowledge not a single prominent native of Central America is desirous of the annexation of his country to the United States.

General View of the Prison Question at Home and Abroad—The Different Systems Considered—Deductions as to the Causes of Crime.

Special Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Commercial.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 9, 1873.

An interesting resume of American prison systems is thus stated in the report of Dr. E. C. Wines, United States Commissioner to the International Prison Congress, held in London in July of last year. "The greater number of both State and county prisons have been built since the beginning of the world-wide controversy between the advocates of the cellular or Pennsylvania system, and the silent or Auburn system, now generally known as the separate and the congregate systems of prison management. This controversy opened in America about a half a century ago, took a concrete and practical form with the opening of the Auburn and Sing Sing penitentiaries in the State of New York, built on the congregate plan with separation at night in single cells, and the two penitentiaries in Pennsylvania at Philadelphia and at Pittsburgh, built on a separate plan with cellular imprisonment day and night for each convict. New Jersey and Rhode Island, in imitation of the Eastern and Western penitentiaries of Pennsylvania, introduced the cellular systems into their State prisons respectively; but those States abandoned the system years ago, and more recently it has been given up at the Western Penitentiary at Pittsburgh, so the result of the controversy in the United States is that cellularism exists only at the Cherry Hill Prison at Philadelphia, in some of the county jails in Pennsylvania, in the Suffolk county jail in Boston, and possibly a few other prisons of the same class. The proportion of prisoners confined on the separate plan in the whole United States is about one to thirty, or the neighborhood of three per cent. It is, therefore, evident the system of association, as opposed to cellularism, is the one which prevails in the United States. Nevertheless it is believed that the enlightened friends of prison reform in this country very generally prefer the system of complete separation for all prisons of preliminary detention, and, moreover, that they would prefer the restriction of all detention prisons to the purpose of safe keeping alone, while minor offenses, they hold, might better receive their punishment in district prisons, forming a middle class of penitentiaries between the detention prison and the State prison; in which reformatory principles and processes might be more hopefully applied than they are now or ever can be in the county jails." It is estimated that there are about forty State prisons, but the number of county, town and city prisons is not known. There are 2,100 counties in the United States. The prison population of the United States is 35,000, of which one in six are women.

Prison management in England has been a subject of profound study and discussion in England for at least a century. The English convict system is devised with a view to combine the principle of deterrence with that of reformation. There are three stages of penal servitude. A stage between the second and the conditional release is applied to women, who may be sent to "refuges" for six months before their release on license. These refuges are establishments managed by private persons who interest themselves in preparing women for discharge and in procuring suitable situations for them. Cellular seclusion for long periods has been found in England to have an enfeebling effect upon the prisoner. A stage of separate imprisonment, however, has been found in England to be indispensable to the best effects of convict treatment. There are 11 convict prisons in England; that is 8 for males, 2 for females and 1 mixed, with capacity for 10,003 prisoners. In all but two of the convict prisons, Bentonville and Millbank, the prisoners work in association. There are also 122 borough and county jails, with accommodation for 27,169 prisoners. The average period of imprisonment is less than one month.

Three-fourths of the prisoners have a term under a month, and one-fourth under six months. Less than one in a thousand have a term exceeding the last named period. As a rule all prisoners are separated at night. They work generally in association, but under supervision, to prevent communication.

The Irish prison, or Crofton system—so named after Sir Walter Crofton—consists of three, or, including the period of provisional liberation, four stages. The first stage, from eight to nine months, is that of cellular imprisonment, to give him time for reflection; the second stage is passed in a congregate prison, with separation at night and associated labor during the day. He there receives milder treatment and credit for good behavior. There are four classes. Each class marks a change in the prisoner's situation and a mitigation of his punishment. On reaching the fourth class he no longer wears the prison garb; he is employed on special works; he enjoys many privileges; he may be said to approach a state of liberty. This second stage characterizes the system. The third stage in the Crofton system admits the convict into the intermediate prison. The fourth stage is that of conditional or primary liberation. This famous system, it will be seen, is at the same time penal and reformatory. In all the European countries named the prison administration is under the control of the government through the Ministers of the Interior or Justice, or some central authority. The discipline has generally in view the punishment and reformation of the criminal. In all the prisons moral and religious agencies are employed through the labors of chaplains or clergymen, and the cooperation of religious societies. In most of the prisons, in addition to religious services, Sunday schools have also been established in many of the prisons. The scholastic education of prisoners presents an interesting chapter. It shows that about three-fifths are unable to read. In most of the European prisons schoolmasters are employed for the instruction of the inmates. The system of prison labor varies in kind, sometimes it is of a disagreeable nature, by way of disciplinary punishment, sometimes it is pursued in trades. The sanitary condition of prisons is a subject of considerable attention. The reformatory results of the different modes of discipline are subjects of diverse opinions and useful and instructive controversy. In regard to the causes of crime, these have been reduced to an oblivion of religious and moral principles, ignorance of duty, want of a trade or some regular calling, artificial wants, drunkenness, libertinism, distaste for work and consequent idleness. About three-fourths of the imprisonments are for the violation of the right of property, or theft. The cause of stealing is rarely undeserved distress, most commonly it is idleness, the desire for lawful or unlawful pleasures or habits of drinking. These vices generally result from or are associated with a neglected education.

The subject of juvenile reformatories in the different countries was but imperfectly reported upon by the representatives at the London Congress, owing to an oversight in the preparation of the question sent out before hand. This important branch of the work looking to the prevention of crime, however, was partially presented, and showed evident signs of earnest activity in the United States, Denmark, Saxony, France, Italy, and Great Britain. A great deal more might be said on these subjects, but sufficient has been given in order to show that the busy mind of the present generation is at work in devising, not only the means of suppressing crime, but in mitigating many of the lasting evils resulting from the earlier prison systems.

DeB. R. K.

The Warnock House, Rock Point.

Those of our readers who prefer quiet comfort to the glitter, glare and positive punishment of a sojourn in a seven by nine room, at a fashionable watering place, will be pleased to learn that the old-established Warnock House, at Rock point, mouth of the Connoquenessing creek, has been fitted up in first-rate style for the accommodation of visitors during the summer. No place within our knowledge offers so many attractions in the way of romantic scenery and interesting surroundings. It is especially nice as a resort for families. And Mr. M. A. Anderson, the gentlemanly proprietor, has kept his rates down to a reasonable figure—a dollar and a half per day, or seven dollars per week. He will spare no pains to make all visitors comfortable and contented during their stay. Rock Point has the advantage of being near the city.

EDUCATIONAL.

Meeting of the Central Board—Regular Monthly Report—High School Teachers Elected—The Salary Question—Separate Colored Schools Continued—The Finances—Consideration of School Grades Postponed.

[It should be understood that the South Side is not included in this report, but comes under the City Superintendent's care this month.]

The Superintendent mentions the fact that this report closes his fifth year in the position and takes the opportunity to note some of the important changes which have taken place in our city with reference to our public schools.

The city has grown from ten to thirty-seven wards and her population has increased from 49,000 to over 120,000. The monthly enrollment of pupils in the twenty-three wards of the city has increased from 7,558 to 10,478, or nearly forty per cent. A public school for mutes has been established, music, drawing and gymnastics have been introduced as regular studies or exercises; public, normal and commercial schools have been opened in connection with the Central High School, and all the schools have been graded on a uniform basis. Fourteen new district and one high School have been erected at a cost of over $900,000. The report was accepted.

HIGH SCHOOL PRINCIPAL'S REPORT.

The report of the Principal of the High School gives the enrolled and average attendance for the month of May, as follows:

	Males.	Females.	Total.
Enrolled	174	143	317
Average attendance	148	126	274

The Principal's report with reference to the examinations and commencement exercises have already been published. He recommends the advertisement of examinations for admission to the schools, and that the said examinations commence on Monday, June 23, at 9 A. M.

The report was accepted, and the recommendations as to time of examination for admissions, &c., all adopted, and the Secretary instructed to advertise the same.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A communication from C. C. Cochran, Professor of Commercial Science in the High School, asking an increase of salary to $2,500, was read and ordered to be filed.

Also, a communication from J. Morrison Dunn, Professor of Belles Lettres in the High School, was also read. He complains that he has, without good cause, been dropped by the High School Committee as one of the professors in the institution. Received and filed.

FINANCES.

Mr. Rankin presented the report of the Committee on Finance as follows:

Amount overdrawn May 12th	$11,693 45
Warrants paid since May 12th	15,367 46
Coupons paid since May 12th	135 00

Amount overdrawn June 9, 1873		$20,674 98

The Secretary read the opinion of the Solicitor of the Board, Josiah Cohen, Esq., relative to the matter of exonerations as may be made by the County Commissioners. He says that while the Board may rely upon the discretion of the Commissioners in the matter they are not bound to do so. The report was accepted.

TEACHERS ELECTED.

The report of the High School Committee was then read by the secretary, covering the recommendations for election of teachers for the High School. The recommendations of the committee were unanimously adopted, except as to the teacher in the Normal department, for which there were three nominations. The certificates and recommendations were read, and a ballot being had, Miss M. J. Graham was elected as recommended by the committee.

The committee state that they withhold a recommendation for the position of Professor of Belles Lettres at this time.

They respectfully but urgently request that no change be made in the arrangement and studies of the High School.

The report of the Committee on Music was read, recommending the election of six teachers of music, and on motion Messrs. Horner, Darling, W. H. Slack and W. B. Slack were re-elected, and Messrs. R. M. Cargo and G. W. Huey were elected the two additional teachers.

THE COLORED SCHOOLS.

The Secretary read reports from the committee on the Miller street (colored) schools. The majority report, signed by James McEwen, C. H. Kehew, H. Lee Mason and Lewis J. Fleming, says with reference to the continuance of the school, that after due consideration they have concluded that the time has not yet arrived when the school can be advantageously dispensed with, and that they therefore recommend that it be continued one year.

The minority report signed by Mr. Arthurs claims that the discontinuance of the school would tend to the advantage of the pupils in the matter of grades; that it would tend materially to remove the prejudice against color by daily association with the white children, and with equal privileges and opportunities; that colored children are entitled by law to admission to all the ward schools, and are generally so admitted, and it is not just that the school should be maintained by this Board for the special advantage of the Moorhead sub-school district.

A motion was made to adopt the report of the minority, and Mr. McEwen spoke in favor of it, saying the time had not yet come for the discontinuance of the separate school, many of the colored people being desirous of continuing it.

Mr. Shaw moved to amend that a limit of one year be fixed.

Mr. Harper read the city school law, showing that the Board must keep up a separate school for children of color. He agreed that it was unnecessary, but before its discontinuance the law must be changed.

Mr. Arthurs argued for the discontinuance of the school as unnecessary and expensive, costing between four and five thousand dollars per year. He said the main argument made by colored persons was that three teachers would be thrown out of employment. As to the law, he did not think a school law paramount to the constitution.

Mr. Harper did not think so either, but while colored children have a right to go to white schools, the Board, while the law stands, must maintain the separate school.

Mr. Craig (Mr. Sims in the chair) thought that the Board could not be compelled to keep up an expensive and unnecessary school. The law requiring the school was made when they could not get into the white schools. No colored child can be excluded from the schools of the district in which he or she may reside.

Mr. Lewis moved that the minority report be taken up instead of the majority report, and the motion was adopted.

A vote was then taken on the question of adopting this report, viz.: to discontinue the school, with the following result:

Yeas—Messrs. Arthur, Case, Miller, Craig, Hemiup, Kimmel, Lewis, McClurg, Nobbs, Rankin, Shaw, Sims, Strain, Wilson—14.

Nays—Messrs. Ahl, Aughenbaugh, Barker, Caldwell, Fleming, Graham, Harper, Jope, Kehew, Mason, McEwen, Praetsch, Schultz, Sterrett, Wilkinson—15.

The motion was lost.

Mr. Shaw renewed his amendment that one year be the limit, provided that legislation is had to discontinue the same. Carried.

Mr. Shaw moved that the committee on Legislation be instructed to procure necessary legislation for the discontinuance of the school one year hence. Adopted.

TEACHERS AND SALARIES.

Mr. Nobbs presented a report from the Committee on Teachers and Salaries, covering allotments of teachers as heretofore published. The report as to allotments was adopted, with an amendment giving an additional teacher to the South district.

The question of salaries then came up.

Mr. Rankin said that he did not think it proper to raise the salaries of some of the teachers in the High School.

Mr. Arthurs moved to amend by making the salaries the same as during the present year.

Mr. Nobbs said that some difficulty was experienced in procuring a competent person for the position of Belles Letters, and therefore the increase had been suggested.

Mr. Sims opposed continued increases of salaries.

On motion of Mr. Wilson the question was divided, and the question was put as to the salaries in the High School and carried, so that the salaries will remain as now. The report of the committee so far was adopted, as amended and the salary of the Principal of the Mute school was increased to $900.

On motion of Mr. Sterrett the question of teachers in the colored schools was referred to the committee on teachers and salaries with power to act.

Mr. Shaw moved to take up the question of grades in the ward schools. Adopted.

Mr. Lewis moved to adopt the report of the Principals Congress.

Mr. Case moved as an amendment that the report of the Committee on Text Books and Grades be adopted.

Some discussion occurred, during which Mr. Nobbs moved, that owing to the importance of the subject, that it be postponed until another day. Various motions were then made; a motion to adjourn until Tuesday next was voted down, and finally, a motion to postpone the consideration of the matter until the next regular meeting. Carried.

Mr. Arthurs offered a resolution in regard to the payment of bills, requiring examination of committees and a report of their action to be reported to the Board. Carried.

TREASURER ELECTED.

Bids for depositories of the moneys of the Board were then called for, and the following announced:

	Per cent.
Keystone bank	6 9-16
Shoe and Leather bank	6
Tenth Ward bank	6½

These bids show the interest offered on the current balances. On motion the Tenth Ward bank was duly elected the depository, Mr. Gus Praetch Treasurer, and the matter of bonds was referred to the Finance Committee.

Adjourned.

Prime Roasted Coffee.

Dilworth's patent steam polished, Java flavored coffee is certainly the best article in the market. The delicious aroma which ascends from it while being prepared is enough to throw a luxurious eater into ecstacies. It is so neatly put up in packages all ready to be ground that housewives very naturally take to it, as it is a great labor saver. Go to your retail grocer and buy a package, and our word for it you will linger at your cups like birds in autumn. It is the autocrat of the breakfast table.

An English Auction.

In England it seems to be the law that when property is put up at auction, the owner surrenders all control over it, and it must go to the highest bona fide bidder. The Sewickley sale last Wednesday was conducted in the same manner precisely, and every lot put up was sold to bona fide purchasers at their own prices. The second and last sale next Wednesday, will afford the last opportunity for most rare bargains.

MEETING OF PRESBYTERY.

Ordination of a Pastor—The Grace Church Case.

The Pittsburgh Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church met yesterday afternoon in Westminster Church, Torrens Station, at 2 o'clock, and in the evening at 7:30 o'clock, Rev. E. R. Donehoo, Moderator, in the chair, and Revs. W. T. Beatty and S. M. Henderson, stated and permanent clerks. After satisfactory examinations and the delivery of a popular sermon, all of which were unanimously approved, Mr. William N. Sloan, Ashland, Ohio, and a student of the Western Theological Seminary, was ordained to the office of the Holy Ministry and installed pastor of the congregation at Westminster.

Rev. John Gillespie preached the sermon, Rev. C. V. McKaig delivered the charge to the pastor, and Rev. W. T. Beatty the charge to the congregation. The sermon, which was eloquent and to the point, was an exhibition of the ministerial heroism of the Apostle Paul, who was not ashamed to proclaim the gospel at the foot of the throne of the Imperial Caesars, before the philosophers and grandees of Rome, the political, religious and military mistress of the world, and the seat of the Pantheon, which contained many thousands of false gods,—not the gods only of the empire, but all its subjugated provinces. The addresses of Messrs McKay and Beatty also elicited much commendation. The congregation was large and attentive, and the services throughout were impressive and appropriate. Mr. Sloan, the newly ordained and installed pastor, is a young gentleman of excellent talent, and enters on his work with bright hopes of success. The congregation of Westminster was organized some four of five years ago, and has been without a pastor for the past twelve months, but the people are devoted and possessed of the right spirit, and will no doubt prosper under the ministrations of their young pastor.

Papers were presented to the Presbytery in relation to a difficulty about the election and ordination of an Elder in Grace Presbyterian church. On motion the papers were referred to a committee, consisting of Revs. James Black, D. D., President of the Pennsylvania Female College; John Douglass, D. D., and Isaac McKinney, and W. B. Negley, and Finley Torrens, Esqs. The committee retired to investigate the case, and at the opening of the evening session presented their report, which was adopted. It declared the election and ordination of the Elder in question to be null and void, and recommended, among other things, the appointment of a committee to superintend a new election. The Moderator appointed the same committee to take charge of the matter.

After the adjournment of Presbytery, the congregation greeted the young pastor by extending the right hand of Christian fellowship.

The choir performed its part well, and rendered the sacred songs in excellent style.

Another Counterfeiter Arrested.

Joseph Mardis, an uncle of the young men Scott and John Mardis, lately released on bail in this city, was brought here yesterday and committed to jail to await his trial on the charge of passing counterfeit money. Mardis has been in jail at Cleveland for nearly two months, and comes here on an order of removal issued by the United States Court.

ARBUCKLES & CO.'S
"Compono,"
"Fragar,"
"Ariosa,"
AND
RIO COFFEES,
In 1 lb. Packages,

Will retain their full strength and aroma for any length of time. The pores of the berry are hermetically sealed immediately after roasting by a process peculiarly their own, and for which they have Letters of Patent. The ingredients used for hermetically sealing also perfectly clarifies or settles the coffee, thus dispensing with the trouble and cost of eggs or other substances for settling. That all other brands of Roasted Coffee lose their strength and flavor must be apparent to every one from the fact that Coffee, when roasted, becomes porus, and unless hermetically sealed, the aroma and strength escapes.

Arbuckles & Co.'s Coffees are kept by all Grocers.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 11, 1873.

THE Oregon volunteers, in the wanton massacre of a party of unarmed Modocs who were under the protection of the government, have shown themselves as brutal and as treacherous as the Modocs who slew CANBY and THOMAS. The Indians, however, have the advantage of being able to urge that they knew no better—an excuse the Oregon assassins cannot avail themselves of.

THE United States government has appointed a military commission to try Captain JACK and some of his comrades for the murder of CANBY and THOMAS under the sanctities of a flag of truce. That these Indian cutthroats deserve the halter no one can dispute; but, can the government lay its heavy hand upon them while those Oregon volunteers are still at large who fired upon and killed a party of Indians under the protection of the National flag? After hunting all over the lava beds for the fugitive Indians, it must institute a similarly effective hunt after the Oregonian murderers, who are fugitives from its justice, or be content to be classed as partial and one-sided.

THE Marquette Mining Journal calls attention to the fact that while Michigan furnishes the iron ore for one-third of the iron produced in the United States, it is nearly the lowest on the list of States producing manufactured iron, and this notwithstanding the fact that it possesses coal in abundance and of good quality. Wisconsin, a State without either coal or ore, manufactured 37,284 tons of iron rails in 1872, whilst Michigan turned out only 9,883 tons.

Michigan is one of those States that imagines its mission is exclusively agricultural. Its population is devoted mainly to the production of cereals, for which it has to seek a market hundreds of miles off. If the mineral wealth possessed by that State, were combined with its agricultural wealth, it would be one of the richest States in the Union. Its farms need the accompaniment of factories to show their real value and it is one of the grave sins of Free Trade that it has so egregiously misled an entire people to neglect their mineral resources to their own impoverishment and material injury.

THE usual howl goes up from Democratic throats over the announcement that the President has gone to Long Branch to spend the summer, and it would seem, in Democratic eyes, to be a criminal offense in the President to seek a little relaxation when the opportunity offers. WASHINGTON thought it no crime to go as often as he liked to Mount Vernon when he was President, and although the Democratic papers of his day abused him without stint, this was not chronicled as among his offenses. JEFFERSON also frequently went to his home in Virginia, when he got the chance. MADISON did the same; and MONROE, in 1817, was absent over three months from the Capital. JACKSON did not scruple to leave the seat of government, when he felt like it; and BUCHANAN uniformly spent his summers at Old Point Comfort, or Bedford Springs. Surely GRANT has plenty of good precedents to sustain him; and inasmuch as he can be reached any moment in the day by telegraph from Washington City, or return there in a few hours, if needed, his visit to Long Branch does not interfere in the least with the regular operations of the government.

THE Democratic papers affect to consider that the President is as guilty as Congress in the back-pay matter. Congress passed the bill, they say, and the President signed it—ergo: one is as bad as the other. The logic, however, is not good. The back-pay provision was not in a bill by itself, but in the Civil and Diplomatic Appropriation bill, which contained the various appropriations needed to carry on the government. The back-pay matter did not stand before him on its own merits, but came as part of a general bill without which the government could not get along. If he could have vetoed the back-pay section, and approved the rest of the bill, he would doubtless have done it; but he had either to approve the whole bill as it came to him from the hands of Congress, or to veto the whole bill. Congress had the power of voting and acting on that section by itself, separately and on its merits; but the President had not; and Congress could have rejected that section, without impairing or injuring the Appropriation bill in the least; but he could not. The two do not, therefore, stand on the same ground, nor are they to be judged by the same rule. The veto power has never, or but rarely been exercised upon an Appropriation bill; and the President could not be expected to exercise it on this bill, simply because it contained an obnoxious section, when Congress was just on the point of adjourning, and when there was no time to frame another bill to take its place.

It is further to be borne in mind that the bill contained no back pay for the President. It increased his pay for the future; but the increase was to take effect only upon the commencement of his second term. In approving that part of it, then, he was approving an increase of pay for his successor, and the fact that he was to be his own successor could not in any way affect the question of the propriety of the increase.

There was, besides, a very general concurrence in the public mind throughout the United States, in the judgment that the President's salary was too low. This was conceded by Democrats and Republicans alike, and by Democratic and Republican newspapers everywhere. On that part of the bill there was no division of sentiment; and the attempt of the Democratic press now to make capital out of his approval of an act which secured him increased pay during his second term, is both ridiculous and contemptible.

THINGS IN SPAIN.

Persons who have given any attention to the course of events in Spain feel no surprise at the proclamations of a Federal Republic by the Constituent Cortes. In view of the political elements of which the Assembly is composed nothing else was to be expected. At the elections which closed on the 14th of May, conservatives of all classes, in accordance with the advice of their leaders and with a resolution formed beforehand, abstained from voting. The only exceptions occurred in certain districts remote from the capital where some twenty-five anti-republican Deputies were chosen, whose influence in the Cortes will probably be insignificant. Then there are a few socialist Deputies of the class irreconcilable. But the great majority, more than three hundred in a body consisting of less than four hundred members, are pronounced friends of the form of government which has just been proclaimed. How far they can be said to represent the views of the Spanish nation is sufficiently apparent from the facts that some of them, nominally representing extensive districts, were returned by less than two hundred votes, and that even in Madrid only a fourth of all the electors voted. Thus the monarchists of all parties making no effort to disturb, or in any way interfere with the elections, seemed to give up the contest, and to permit the Federalists to arrange the government of the country in their own mode. It would appear that an election occasion in Switzerland or in the United States never passed off more peacefully than this election in turbulent Spain, notwithstanding the momentous results which were suspended on its issue.

It would, however, be a mistake to ascribe the phenomenon either to the growth of republicanism or to a resolution on the part of the Monarchists to suppress their aspirations and to accept popular institutions. While it is true that the republic has been steadily gaining adherents among its former enemies, most of the persons who abstained from voting are as fixed and resolute as ever in opposition. The object of their policy, as explained by President Figueras, seems to be "to create a vacuum around the actual government;" in other words, to let it alone in a certain sense, by refusing to recognize it, and thus force upon it the discredit of relative insignificance. Really to let it alone is far from their thought, and conspiracies are rife in all quarters, almost every important house being the center of a combination working darkly in favor of one or another of the candidates for the throne.

And yet the prospects of the Federal republic are certainly brighter than they have heretofore been. In several battles lately the Carlists have been utterly routed, and the counsels of the party are distracted by divisions. DORREGARAY, the only one of their generals who could boast of much success, has been deprived of his command, and certain mountain passes within the seat of the war, the possession of which was essential to their military operations, are now held by the republicans. In being driven ignominiously from Barcelona, the Carlists have suffered a still heavier blow, as their occupation of that city was the indispensable condition of a loan which their agents hoped to negotiate in England. Outside of the northern provinces DON CARLOS seems to have few supporters in the country, and even in those provinces he is said to be a favorite only with the uninstructed multitude, the leaders of the party having no confidence in his fitness to reign. Indeed, whatever may be the fate of the republic, sagacious Spaniards think it impossible that DON CARLOS can ever become king. And the prospects of some other aspirants at one time quite favorable have already dwindled away into thin air. At present, in the opinion of prominent republican leaders, the Spanish nation instead of having to choose between three or four royal candidates and the republic, has a less difficult task. The contest has been so far simplified that Spain must accept either the Federal republic or a constitutional monarchy, with DON ALFONSO at its head. "Save me from my friends" is a Spanish proverb. If DON ALFONSO could be admitted alone to Spain, it is thought that he might possibly prosper. He is an unobjectionable youth, with some promising qualities. But he could not be admitted alone; if admitted, his mother, the banished ex-queen, would also go in with her relatives, and the old, intolerable state of things would be re-established, to be soon followed by another revolution. Then there would be another opportunity of setting up a republic. But Spain is weary of revolution and longs for quiet times. The people have shown this clearly enough by their comparative patience and self-restraint during the last six months, and there seems really some prospect that the Federal republic just proclaimed may become the permanent government of the country. The separate provinces have always retained a certain measure of independence, and thus present in their existing conditions a substantial ground-work for the new organization. It may be difficult to frame a constitution which shall satisfy the independence or State rights pretensions of the provinces, and yet keep Spain one nation, but Switzerland and the United States have each solved the problem. The men taking the lead in Spain are diligent students of both these republics, and especially of the United States.

DELUSION ABOUT CURRENCY.

Communications in the newspapers and remarks occasionally heard even in business circles, indicate a very prevalent misconception of the just functions of currency. One correspondent writes to call for another issue of greenbacks; while another writer complains that the general commercial interests of the country are suffering from the absorption of its capital by railway and other companies who do business on an extensive scale. The demand and the complaint are equally founded on a mischievous delusion, as several of our contemporaries have already shown. The delusion is that money, regarded as a mere circulating medium, is in itself wealth, instead of being a mere substitute for or representative of wealth. When gold or silver is in question, there is some excuse for the misapprehension, as both gold and silver, called the precious metals, possess a commercial value of their own. But in a country in which for so many years the currency in use has been pieces of cheap paper inscribed with certain words and figures, it is really remarkable that the true nature of the article is not understood by every one. But in despite of the intrinsic worthlessness of the material employed as currency, persons of great intelligence in some directions seem confidently to believe in the power of the government to increase the wealth of the nation by merely multiplying greenbacks, and the same persons with equal assurance believe in the power of companies to embarrass the traffic of the whole country by absorbing an undue proportion of the currency. Perhaps the ideas of these troubled financiers might be cleared up somewhat by a few minutes' meditation on the African institution described by MONTESQUIEU. According to that writer, certain black tribes of the African coast employ a purely ideal money of account. Instead of saying or thinking that an article belonging to him is worth so many maravedis or so many cowries, a member of this sagacious tribe says it is worth so many macutes. Now the word macute answers to nothing actually existing in the nature of things, but is a mere name of a unit value, by means of which those who use it compare and estimate the worth of the objects of utility which constitute their currency. A knife worth nine macutes entitles its owner to receive in exchange three breech cloths, each being worth three of the same etherial coins. They are not likely to take up erroneous notions of the nature of wealth, or of the laws of exchange.

In fact, currency is a mere instrument, essentially as conventional in character as the macute of Africa; it is merely a part of the machinery by which the real values of the country are brought into circulation and made the subjects of exchange. An authority entitled to great respect declares that "we have all the money requisite to exchange twice the products of our legitimate industries, and to do it as conveniently as and more cheaply than if its amount were double." That the assertion is true we fully believe. The scarcity or stringency in the money market concerning which complaints are so frequent is the result of illegitimate or at least perilous modes of doing business. In their eagerness to gain or increase their wealth, men go too fast, and incur liabilities which embarrass them; others boldly speculate on hazards more or less desperate, and all find themselves in need of money, of which they feel that they must have the temporary use under penalty of ruin. The hopes of some and the fears of others render them willing to pay almost any rates of interest that may be asked for, and of course they largely obtain the article which they so greatly need. In a word, it is the prevalent tendency to make debts, which causes the scarcity of money and the clamor for its relief by extraordinary measures. But the proper remedy for the embarrassment does not consist in enlarging the currency. While the so-called cure, if applied, might afford a little apparent relief the effect would be only temporary. In reality, it would increase the evil by increasing the tendency in which it originated, and, in the long run, produce widely spread financial disaster. The remedy, and the only remedy worthy of consideration, consists in the cultivation of greater care and caution in financial management and in methods of business. Thus the currency of the country, instead of being hired at exorbitant rates for the purposes of speculation or of hazardous trade, would be left free to fulfill its legitimate representative end in facilitating exchanges.

A railway company may possibly carry on its business in a manner which may interfere with the healthy and regular application of the currency. It is, however, difficult to perceive how any such injurious effect can result from the mere largeness of the amount which a railway or other company requires. Greenbacks are not used by any of them as material applied and destroyed or rendered permanently fixed in their operations. To them as to the single farmer or the single mechanic currency is nothing more than the medium through which labor in its various forms is paid for. It is thus speedily diffused among all classes of society, to serve their wants in turn, and so answers its original purpose.

An apology may be due for dwelling on truths so elementary, not to say commonplace. But truisms though they seem to some, there are not a few people who have never yet grasped their import.

The Lake Superior Iron Trade.

The Marquette Mining Journal says: The New York Bulletin is mistaken in reference to a "dullness" in the iron trade of this region. Business was never better or more encouraging than at present. The stock of pig metal on hand is no larger than usual at this season of the year, prices are good, and the demand for the product of our charcoal furnaces more than equal to the supply.

THE Whitehouse-Cheeny affair is again on the anvil. The case came up in Court in Chicago last week, when the counsel for the defense moved for an extension of time for eight months, in order that evidence might be taken for the defendants and suitable preparation be made for the hearing. The defense proposes to show by very high English, as well as American authority, that there is no power and authority inherent in the office of a bishop of the church to depose or suspend contrary to the constitution and canons thereof. The counsel for the complainants opposed a continuance of the case, but the Court regarded it as one of very great importance to the church at large, and as involving questions of ecclesiastical law that should be thoroughly investigated; the claim for extension of time was therefore granted.

Much is made in Europe of the visit of his royal highness, the Shah of Persia, and not without reason, for it is a thing wholly unprecedented in history. The correspondent of a Paris journal relates of the magnificence of his equipment that the sum of money destined by the Persian ruler for the expenses of his journey in Europe amounts to 9,000,000 gold pieces worth 11 francs 88 centimes each, or a total of about 106,000,000 francs. It is, however, well understood that when he once sets foot on Russian territory his expenses will be paid by the Treasury, and in that way a sum of 200,000 francs has been set apart for his reception at Astrakan. The expensive monarch at first desired to take his entire harem and household with him upon his journey, but was finally persuaded to be satisfied with three wives and a retinue of several hundred dignitaries and gentlemen-in-waiting.

Two convicts in the California State Prison made an ingenious attempt to escape recently. They stowed themselves away in a box of spokes, and had the box so arranged that when they were landed on the wharf in San Francisco they could open one end and crawl out. But, unhappily for them, one of the deck-hands on the boat stood on the box, so that they were placed heads down, and one of them was forced to cry out, to the astonishment of the workmen, "this box don't stand right." He was the spokes-man for the whole lot of spokes.

In San Bernardino county, Cal., a few days ago, an immense swarm of green bugs was noticed traveling along the highway and across the fields. They resembled in shape the tumble-bug, although not quite so large. They had wings, but could not fly. They covered the ground for a distance of three miles.

THE shipments of iron ore and pig iron from the port of Marquette during the season to June 4th, were of ore 24,611 tons, and of pig 1,299 tons, making a total of 25,910 tons. The shipments from Escanaba to the 3d inst. were, of ore 75,556 tons, and of pig 2,789¼ tons; total, 78,388¼ tons.

A pair of newly arrived Britishers, being about to undertake their first sleigh drive in New York, were asked by the waiter whether they would have one or two "buffaloes," meaning robes, of course. Believing that he spoke of horned cattle of unknown temper, they modestly replied that, as they were new to the work, one buffalo would suffice to begin with.

A New York shoemaker exhibits in his window a sheet of brown paper on which is shown the size and form of Abraham Lincoln's feet, drawn with a pencil. On it is pasted a card bearing the words, "Let this man come right in,"—written and signed by Mr. Lincoln.

James Wilson Brooks, who inherits his father's share of the New York Express, the late Hon. James Brooks, is now at Yale being educated to take the father's position. It is a journalistic coincidence that the late Mr. Raymond, like Mr. Brooks, left a son at Yale, in the process of being educated to take his place.

An appeal is being made in this country for aid in behalf of the family of the late Dr. Merle, best known by his title of D'Aubigne and his History of the Reformation. His salary as professor in the theological seminary at Geneva was always small, and he has died, leaving his widow and four children without adequate means of support and education.

From Dardanelles come tidings that Dr. Schliemann, in the course of his excavations, has come upon an ancient gateway at a considerable depth below the foundations of new Ilium, a city which is supposed to have been built upon the site of Homer's Ilium. The gateway is paved with large flat blocks of stone, and slopes downward toward the plain. The learned excavator is of opinion that this is no other than the Scæan gate. It appears that the ruins which have already been brought to light are wanting in that grandeur which from Homer's description of the famous city might have been expected.

Mr. H. O. Houghton, of the prosperous Riverside Press, tells how, nearly fifty years ago, a little, pale-faced man came into the Vermont printing office where he was learning his trade and, handing him a printed slip, said, "My lad, when you use these words spell them as here, theater, center," etc. It was Noah Webster, traveling on foot and visiting country printing offices to persuade people to spell as he did. The apprentice little thought at that time that he should ever be head of an establishment which would manufacture a thousand tons of Webster's Dictionaries.

Foreign Endorsement of the Standard Tonic of America.

There seems to be no limit to the celebrity of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Every year the demand for it increases and the territorial area of its popularity expands. It has long been the standard tonic, and an approved remedy for epidemic disease in the Republics of South and Central America, in Brazil and the West Indies and the British Colonies on this continent. More recently its merits have been appreciated at the antipodes, and it is now shipped in large quantities to Australia and Tasmania. The reason why it is making such extraordinary headway in remote regions as well as in America, are very simple and lie in a nutshell. It is a medicine suited to all peoples, all climates and all ordinary disorders and disabilities. It prevents and cures malarious diseases, relieves indigestion, braces the nerves, improves the appetite, clears the brain, regulates the liver, arrests intermittent fever, strengthens the physique and invigorates the constitution.

THE IRON SUPPLY.

Community of Interest Between Miner and Manufacturer—The Feeling in the Lake Superior District.

[From the Marquette Mining Journal.]

We hear no more of the delivery of iron ore in Pittsburgh at four or five dollars per ton, and the Pittsburgh papers have nothing further to offer about the high price of our Lake Superior ores. Notwithstanding the threat made last winter that the majority of Ohio and Pennsylvania furnaces would blow out, unless Lake Superior ores could be obtained at prices lower than the contracts for 1873, and notwithstanding all the chatter about the cheap ores of Virginia and Tennessee, and the building of a narrow guage railway from Pittsburgh to the Missouri mines, the sales of Lake Superior ores for this year's delivery are far in excess of the product of 1872, and our miners find themselves unable to supply the demand, though prices are considerably higher than last year. All this goes to prove that the rich, pure ores of Lake Superior are an absolute necessity to the iron manufacturers of the country, and that growl and grumble as they may, they still must and will have our ores if obtainable at prices which will afford them a fair profit on its manipulation. Still, we believe there is, or should be a community of interest between the iron miner and manufacturer, and most sincerely deprecate any movement which has the appearance of extortion on the part of the former against the latter. Because our ores are a necessity with the blast furnaces of Ohio and Pennsylvania is no reason why we should ever expect or demand a price for them which will not be proportionate with the profits to the smelter. It is true the law of supply and demand applies, or should apply, in the iron trade as it does in all others; but no one branch of trade or industry is justified in exacting more than honest tribute from another, much less to impose burdens which will drive that other to the wall. We offer these remarks merely by way of preface to what we are about to write, and not because they are warranted by the present state of the ore trade, or the relations now existing between the producer and consumer. They are suggested more from the fear that producers, listening to the senseless vaporings of the Iron World, and papers of that ilk, might stand in dread of such a contingency in the future. Such a contingency cannot, however, arise. The furnaces need and must have our ores; and on the other hand we must look to the furnaces for a market—at least until such time as the solution of the fuel problem shall create a home demand equal to the supply. Therefore the consumer and producer is equally dependent each upon the other, and all matters of difference relating to prices should be amicably adjusted between them for the mutual benefit of both.

In 1872 the balance of profits was largely on the side of the consumer, who bought his ore at from seven to nine dollars in Cleveland, and sold the product of his furnace at a very high price. There was then far from anything like an equal division of the profits; still, when the time came for the renewal of the ore contracts the furnacemen raised their regular annual clamor for a reduction of prices, threatened to blow out their stacks, and discoursed most learnedly about the coal and iron deposits of other sections, cheap and rapid railway communication with Missouri, and so on to the end of the chapter, finally making their contracts for Lake Superior ore at a considerable advance on former rates. This they could well afford to do, and in demanding the advance, our Lake Superior miners but insisted upon the proportionate division of profits to which we have above referred. Now the profits are equalized, though a heavier advance in the price of ore would be necessary to cover the difference against the producer last year.

We trust and believe that the parties most directly interested in these matters will see and recognize the community of feeling and interest which should be maintained between them. On the one side we know there is no disposition to take undue advantage of the other's necessities, and we have every reason to believe that on the other hand we shall hear no more foolish talk about the cheap 25 to 45 per cent. cold-short ores of Tennessee. It is just as impossible to run the Ohio and Pennsylvania furnaces successfully without Lake Superior ores, as it would be futile to attempt making pig iron without fuel.

STATE NEWS.

A new piano factory is soon to go into operation in Erie.

Frank Nichols, the Erie pound master, who fell out of a third-story window, one night last week, is again on duty.

Robert McWade is playing "Rip Van Winkle" in Erie.

The fact has been developed that only about one out of ten of those burned out at Corsica, Jefferson county, last Tuesday were insured. This makes the calamity the more distressing. All the business part of the town, and more than half the dwellings having been burned. The total loss aggregates $115,700, while the amount of insurance did not exceed $5,000.

Meadville offers $500 reward for the detection of the incendiaries whose efforts have lately made property there very insecure.

A Mrs. Hattie Davenport, of Albion, Erie county, became impressed with the idea that she was about to die, and on Sunday last her presentment was verified.

Titusville thieves stole a frame house between Saturday night and Sunday morning.

A new well at Greece City caught fire on Saturday, and James Wherry and James Crowley were fatally burned.

The second annual Convention of the Diocese of Central Pennsylvania, Protestant Episcopal Church, met in Reading, yesterday.

The spirit moves the Johnstown Tribune to observe: There were one hundred and seventy-five blows (heats, or conversions), made at our steel works last week. This is ahead of any five ton plants in the world. We feel inclined to ask—"how is Harrisburg?"

A child was born in Cambria county, last week which had but one arm.

Railroad companies are put into rather a strange position by a decision of the Chester County Court, which in the prosecution of a man for stealing railroad tickets, a charge proved by several witnesses and the confession of the defendant, decided that stealing a railroad ticket was not a larceny, the point having been raised by the attorney for the defense. If this is law, railroad depots must be well watched hereafter.

John Early, of Conemaugh borough, Cambria county, died very suddenly on Sunday morning, under circumstances which indicated that he had been foully dealt with. His wife, with whom he lived most unhappily, was addicted to the use of strong drink, and had often been heard to say that she would put an end to him. She kept an assignation house, much against her husband's wishes, and this was a fruitful source of quarrel between them. Mrs. Early stated to several persons after her husband's death that she was glad he was gone. The stomach of deceased was removed, and will be subjected to chemical analysis.

Says the Reading Eagle: One day last week, in the yard of Seyfert & McManus' pipe mill, a pile of coal dirt was removed, when a bank of snow, sixteen feet square and about six inches thick, was found under the pile. The coal dirt screenings from the large lump coal had been thrown on the top of the snow about Christmas. The snow was seen by a large number of reliable persons. The boys used it for snowballing purposes, snowballing in June being a decided novelty in these parts.

In the Pennsylvania Mercury and Philadelphia Price Current of August 13, 1791, is this notice; Died at Harrisburg, after a short illness, Mr. John Harris, proprietor of that borough. Mr. Harris was about 65 years, and is allowed to have been the first white man born on that part of the Susquehanna, where he resided all his life, without experiencing a day's sickness, except the small-pox or measles until that of which he died.

It is stated in the Scranton papers that the Supreme Court has refused a mandamus upon Judge Harding, to allow a contest before him as to the legality of the late vote upon the question of license. This decision of the highest court in the State fully sustains Judge Harding's opinion, and sets at rest all further doubts in regard to the force and construction of the so-called "local option law."

Captain T. H. Walters, of Harrisburg, has been appointed Superintendent of Public Grounds in that city, vice George G. Reinhard, of Lebanon, resigned. Mr. Reinhard occupied the position about six years.

The Philadelphia Press of Monday remarks: Another attempt is to be made to enforce the Sunday liquor law in Philadelphia. On Saturday the proprietors of all the taverns and beer-saloons in the city were notified to close their establishments yesterday. No attention whatever seems to have been paid to the notification, and it is probable that we are to have a renewal of the periodical excitement over the question.

There appeared in the obituary columns of the Philadelphia Ledger last week, notices of the deaths of nine persons—four men and five women—who had lived to or beyond the advanced age of eighty years, to-wit: Leopold Meignen, aged 80; Isaac Thompson, 81; Dolly Weaver, 81; Margaret Guy, 81; Rachel C. Fletcher, 85; John Foster, 88; Clement J. Dalacroix, 89; Margaret Barnes, 90; Mary Bradley, 91.

J. Edgar Thomson, President of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and other prominent officers of the Northern Central and Pennsylvania Companies, left Williamsport on Saturday morning on a tour of inspection over the road to Canandaigua.

Liverpool, Perry county, had a destructive fire on Sunday last, by which about a square of the finest residences in the place were burned, causing a loss of $45,000. Among the principal losers are G. C. Tharp, merchant, store and warehouse and private residence; loss, $10,000; insurance about $9,000. Mrs. Maria Huggins, three houses; loss, $5,000; insurance, $1,200. Mrs. Nancy Reiffsnyder, private residence and barn; loss, $6,000; no insurance. Daniel Wagner, dwelling and saloon; loss, $3,000; no insurance. It is the general supposition that the fire was the work of an incendiary.

The dreaded cerebro-spinal meningitis has made its appearance in Greensburg.

The new Central Presbyterian church, Erie, was dedicated on Monday.

That old tortoise turns up at Lanbaugh's station, Lehigh county, with 1828 cut on his back. Next.

The Allentown Chronicle says: Some of our pig iron manufacturers are still suffering from the effects of the epizootic. The horse disease prevented them from getting in as large a supply of ore for the winter as was desirable, and they were run so short that they have since been unable to catch up in their stock. The cost of ore which it has been necessary to purchase has been so high as to leave little margin to the furnace men. In order to get up the stock for winter it may be necessary for some companies to blow out a stack or two.

PEARL WHEAT IS WITHOUT DOUBT THE MOST
Delicious, Wholesome and Nourishing
Preparation of nature's great food ever produced. Essentially nothing but the woody fibre and a portion of the water are removed by the process, leaving all the starch, gluten and the greatest part of the mineral substances (phosphates), all that is nourishing in the wheat. The removal of the woody fibre makes it far more palatable than the various preparations of wheat now in the market. No other article of food contains such proper proportions of the requirements of the whole human system. To those suffering from INDIGESTION, DYSPEPSIA, and as a BREAKFAST DISH it will prove invaluable. As the persons of sedentary habits, it is unequaled. Our best physicians here say it is of more importance than anything else that can be found. Try it once and you will never be without it. Ask your Grocer or Druggist for a Package. FINANCE AND TRADE.

TUESDAY EVENING, June 10, 1873.

The money market in this city shows no perceptible change either in the supply of funds or the rate of discount. The banks are supplying all the legitimate demand, and very little good paper is offering. The lower rates on commercial paper has brought capitalists into the market as buyers of home securities, the sale of which the various commissions having the matter in charge report progressing favorably. There will be marketed during the summer from a half to three quarters of a million of dollars of city bonds, the proceeds of which will be paid out for work done on the new streets and in extension of the water works, putting just so much more available working capital afloat in our market, the effect of which cannot be otherwise than beneficial to the business community here.

—With the rise in the Bank of England rate of discount to 7 per cent. we have the rather startling rumor that the British government has arrived at a conclusion in relation to the existing financial conditions and the recognized needs of commerce and trade, on which it has been decided to grant authority to the governors of the Bank of England to enlarge its circulation by an addition of £6,000,000 sterling, a power which has not been granted since May 12, 1866, when the minimum rate of discount was fixed at 10 per cent. It is but a repetition of the old story, that a cast iron reserve system cannot be maintained at a time when the framers of the law most intended that the reserves of the bank should be preserved intact.

—Messrs. Ira B. McVay & Co. report the following quotations of government bonds in New York to-day, as furnished them by Jay Cook & Co., their correspondent:

	Morn.	Even.
1881	122⅝	122⅝
1862	117⅜	117⅜
1864	117	117¼
1865	118⅝	119
1865, new	120⅛	120⅛
1867	120⅞	120⅞
1868	120⅝	120⅝
10-40s	....	114⅝
New series	115⅜	115⅜
Gold	117⅜	117⅜
Currency 6s	114⅝	114⅝

—James T. Brady & Co., corner of Fourth avenue and Wood street, quoted United States securities in New York to-day as follows:

Gold	117⅜
United States 6s of 1881	122⅝
United States 5-20s of 1862	117⅜
United States 5-20s of 1864	117⅜
United States 5-20s of 1865	119
United States 10-40s	114⅝
United States 5-20s, January and July, 1865	120⅛
United States 5-20s, January and July, 1867	121⅛
United States 5-20s, January and July, 1868	120⅝
Currency Pacifics	114⅝

—The business in United States bonds has been of a moderate nature the past week, the fluctuations being caused by the changes in the gold quotation. The demand from foreign banking houses continues to be ahead of the supply. On Friday the call of the Secretary for $20,000,000 more of the 5-20s of 1862 was issued, and interest will cease ninety days from this date. The fact that this call has followed so speedily after the other is very satisfactory, as it is indicative that the evidences of debt issued by our National government, and for the payment of which the property of the whole country is pledged, are being more and more highly appreciated abroad, and that the higher standard of credit now enjoyed enables the debt to be funded into a security bearing a low rate of interest. The called bonds are being daily presented at the Treasury for redemption, and the government agent in London report them as coming forward very rapidly. The raising of the Bank of England rate of discount to seven per cent. did not decrease the demand, but rather seemed to increase it, and the whole list now closes firm.

—The following are the numbers of the bonds called, interest on which ceases September 6, 1873: Coupon bonds known as the third series, act of February 25, 1862, dated May 1, 1862, as follows: Coupon bonds, fifty dollars, No. 1,201 to 6,200 inclusive; one hundred dollars, No. 4,701 to 20,000 inclusive; five hundred dollars, No. 3,001 to 10,200 inclusive; one thousand dollars, No. 5,124 to 22,650 inclusive. Total $15,000,000.

Registered bonds—Fifty dollars, No. 1,224 to 1,320 inclusive; one hundred dollars, No. 6,564 to 9,500 inclusive; five hundred dollars, No. 5,361 to 5,750 inclusive; one thousand dollars, No. 20,001 to 23,200 inclusive; five thousand dollars, No. 6,402 to 7,500 inclusive; ten thousand dollars, No. 7,693 to 9,500 inclusive. Total, $5,000,000. Grand total, $20,000,000.

Of the amount outstanding embraced in the numbers as above, sixteen millions of dollars are coupon bonds, and four million are registered bonds. The coupon bonds of the act of February 25, 1862, were issued in four distinct series. The bonds of the first series, all of which have been previously called for redemption, were printed in green tint, and have no designation of series upon them. The bonds of the second series, all of which have been previously called for redemption, were printed in yellow tint, and have the words "second series" on the bonds, and "second" on each coupon. The bonds of the third series, embracing the above numbers, were printed in black, and have the words "third series" on the bonds, and "third" on the bond or on each coupon or both. The bonds of the fourth series were printed in black with red numbering, and have the words "fourth series" or "fourth" on them.

—The following table shows the prices of railway stocks, gold, &c., at the various sessions of the New York Stock Exchange during the day, furnished by George I. Whitney, Esq., broker and dealer in stocks, bonds and gold, corner of Fifth avenue and Wood street:

PRODUCE AND GENERAL MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH COMMERCIAL,
TUESDAY, June 10, 1873.

REMARKS.—So far as the weather is concerned there is little fault to be found. This morning there was a gentle rain, which had the effect of "cooling the air," and rendering pedestrian exercises comparatively comfortable.

So far as the general characteristics of the market are concerned we are at a loss what to say. Opinions of leading dealers are divided as to the future of the market, though its present state is patent to all.

Few changes have occurred since our last report, none of which materially affect the status of the market. Indeed, with the exceptions the vegetable trade, which is always governed by the supply and demand, there is no change worthy of note, all the leading articles being held firmly at previous quotations.

The general state of the market, though not active, is satisfactory, and merchants do not complain of "hard times."

Butter is selling at 15 to 18c ℔ for choice roll. Eggs are in light receipt, and prices are higher, being held at 16@17c per dozen. Potatoes—Supply of old stock light—new more plentiful and prices "coming down." The vegetable market is abundantly supplied.

Below we give the receipts of flour, grain, &c., during the past twenty-four hours. In our estimate we do not include the amounts received by express and peddlers, but only packages brought to the city by rail and river:

Flour, barrels	1,327	Apples, barrels	48
Cheese, boxes	362	Corn, sacks	273
Wheat sacks	4,192	Rye, sacks	1,095
Oats, sacks	6,493	Bacon, tierces	54

Before closing we may remark that the grain market is in an uncertain state, and it is extremely difficult to give reliable figures, hence we omit them to-day, as also our usual extended quotations.

PITTSBURGH OIL TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH COMMERCIAL,
WEDNESDAY, June 11, 1873.

REMARKS.—The market was a dull one, being entirely devoid of animation, and buyers did not appear to be in the humor to operate at present. The result was, sales were by no means plenty; in fact, the market did not present anything like a healthy appearance, so far as relates to holders.

CRUDE

remains quiet but dull, with offerings to sell here at 6@6⅛c; we failed to learn of any transactions at Parker's. Sales of 1,000 bbls reported at $2 32½. For prices in the oil regions, see dispatches.

REFINED.

The market continues very dull, with a further decline in prices, standard brands being offered at 15¾@15⅞c, the lowest figure reached for some time.

OIL BARRELS.

Market firm, with a good demand. Sales of city at $2 15@2 20; country, $2 10.

[By Western Union Line.]

TITUSVILLE, June 10.—The Courier says: The market has been very firm all day at nearly all points, especially from upper road, where there seems to be practical scarcity of spot oil. At Parker's, for Fairview pipe, $2 30 was bid, and for Mutual and Union Lines $2 35 was bid, without seller in either line at prices named. The only sale being 1,000 bbls, in Fairview, as quoted above; closing strong. Sales:

1,500 bbls upper road, spot	$2 60
1,000 bbls upper road, spot	2 60
2,000 bbls upper road, spot	2 60
500 bbls upper road, spot	2 57½
5,000 bbls upper road, spot	2 61¼
1,000 bbls Parker's, sellers Fairview pipe	2 32½

NEW YORK, June 10.—Closing June 9—Market weak; no change; shippers are working on a few lots, with a moderate call from speculators. Crude in bulk 9c; refined 19¾c; cases 25½c; city Naptha 11½c; sales 5,000 bbls refined, August, 19½c; 5,000 bbls, September, 19¾c, Philadelphia delivery, with an increased inquiry for short delivery; 20,000 bbls refined, August and September delivery, 19¾@19⅞c; spot delivery 19½@19⅝c.

PHILADELPHIA, June 10.—Market firm; S.W. 19½c; crude 8⅛c; cases 24½c. Sales, none. Futures, July 19½c; August 19⅝c.

OIL CITY, June 10.—Market dull and nothing doing.

TITUSVILLE, June 10.—Market weaker; spot $2 52½ at 55; nothing doing this morning.

MONONGAHELA—Three feet two inches and falling.

Boats Departing this Day.

THE marks last evening indicated three feet two inches and falling slowly. The weather during the day was cloudy with indications of rain.

MISSOURI river is now higher at Kansas City than at any time this season.

THE towboat Oakland is en route for this city with a tow of empty barges.

THE owners of the City of Quincy contemplate making her larger and deeper, so that she will carry 2,300 tons.

THE towboat Fearless and barges are receiving for Cairo and St. Louis, and will leave on the first water.

THE steamer City of Cairo is advertised for sale by the United States Marshal, at New Orleans, on the 17th.

LOW-WATER crafts will soon take the place of the larger boats, as the water is getting too thin for them to navigate.

ONE of the men who murdered a raftsman near Clarendon, Arkansas, some time since, was sentenced the other day to be hung on the 11th of July.

THE amount of wharfage collected and turned over to the city treasury at Memphis, last month, by the Wharfmaster, was $2,535 70. Even $30 was expended in repairing the month.

WATSON, fireman on the Grand Tower, drowned off the boat some time since, was picked up last Sunday. It is feared that he was knocked overboard, as he was an important witness against the negro who killed the mate of the same steamer.

CAPT. BARR of the Mary Lowery arrived in Sioux City last Thursday for iron rivets, the boat having burned both her boilers and laid up at the mouth of White river, one hundred and twenty miles above Randall. Capt. Barr started back again the same day.

ST. LOUIS, June 8.—Suit has been commenced in the United States District Court against the steamer Sam. Brown, to recover the value of a barge and cargo consisting of iron ore, which was sunk in the Mississippi a few weeks ago through the neglect, it is alleged of the officers of the boat.

THE Joe Kinney met with several accidents on her last trip up the Missouri river. She burst her larboard cylinder head and wrist near Boonville, and at St. Charles she sheered on the pier and went under the bridge, knocking down both her chimneys.

THE regular packet Mallie Ragon, Capt. Williamson, takes her departure this day, 1 P. M., for Wheeling and intermediate points. This boat has the best of accommodations, and is in charge of careful and attentive officers. Mr. Voightly will see that passengers have the best of attention.

ST. PAUL.—The Pioneer, of Friday, says: The St. Croix Lake and river are almost up to high water mark, and still rising. Most of the drives are in the boom, with the exception of some far up in the small streams. If the water keeps up they will be in the boom within the next ten days. There have been more logs passed over the falls the last week than ever before in the same length of time. The logs are jammed to Arcola—about six miles of logs. The Nelson Kent has to take a new channel, through lakes and sloughs, to get above the logs. The Boom Company has a large force of men employed throwing out logs; also a force at the Osceola boom. The drives all coming in together will make steamboat navigation on the St. Croix better than ever before.

THE dam on the left of Brunot's Island is being hurried to completion. The gap is closed, and the stone are being placed in position as fast as possible, and in a short time the dam will be completed. They are also going to rip-rap the island as fast as stone can be secured, intending to make it a first-class improvement.

THIS from the Vicksburg Herald: "As the steamer Emma was receiving some freight on her way down last trip, two of the crew became involved in a difficulty, challenges were finally exchanged and pistols drawn, shot fired and one of the parties instantly killed, and at last accounts the other was at large. Both parties were negroes. There seems to have been a general dissension among the crew as she reached this place with only three hands.

THE United States Mail Packets on the slackwater arrive and depart on time. The low water has so far had no effect on them. These boats are side-wheelers, were built expressly for the trade and are A No. 1 in every respect. They depart strictly on time, 8 A. M. and 5 P. M. If you want any further information just call on Captain A. S. Carlile, on the wharfboat. What he don't know about the Brownsville trade is not worth inquiring about.

HO FOR THE ROCKY MOUNTAINS.—The new and fine steamer Josephine, J. Capt. Todd will positively take her departure for St. Louis and Missouri river on Saturday. This boat was built expressly for the trade under the superintendence of Captain J. Todd, who as a boat builder has proved a success. Just one year ago Capt. Todd left here with the new mountain steamer Key West, a boat that has proved a great success. The same boat that a few days since successfully navigated the Yellowstone for a distance of nearly three hundred miles, showing conclusively that something can be done as well as others, and that if there is any new project on foot such as opening up new routes of transportation you may set Pittsburgh down as being counted in.

ST. LOUIS.—The Republican says: There is room to believe that the Missouri river will cut through into the Big Sioux during the present rise. The distance between the streams now is only about one hundred and fifty feet, and the waters commingle to some extent. The new departure has been looked for for some years, and if not accomplished this season will surely come in a short time.

The Nellie Peck left Fort Benton, on her return trip, May 30, and was expected on Sunday at Sioux City. What she will do is not known, but Capt. E. H. Durfee is there, and will decide further movements.

The steamer Far West arrived at Sioux City from Fort Benton Thursday, and loads for a return trip at once.

THE following is from the Indianapolis People: It is not generally known that the smiling William Ripley, the great grocer, was once a bold and rollicking sailor boy, yet such am a fact. William was a steamboat capting on the long, the crooked Ohio river, for one period of ten years, and would probably have remained one till this day, but for a mere trifling accident. His boat, the Sky Rocket, while scampering up stream at a rate of forty miles an hour, "busted her bilers," by thunder, and William started unexpectedly skyward, without even an extra paper color. One day he came crashing down through the roof of a country grocery. William had lit. He lit square in a tub of apple butter. He offered to settle it dollar for dollar. Many busted up men don't offer ten cents on the dollar, and the proprietor took Bill into partnership, and in due time he found his way here. Moral. Pay dollar for dollar, whether you have it or not.

THE New Orleans Times says: Some time ago there was tried before the Fourth District Court a case involving the liability of the steamboat R. E. Lee for the value of a watch intrusted to the charge of its officers for transportation hence to Natchez—the watch not having been delivered at its place of destination. Judgment was given for plaintiff, but subsequently a new trial was granted, and on this new trial Judge Lynch has reversed the former decision, basing his judgment on an act of Congress which provides that common carriers shall not be liable for the loss of valuable packages, unless the shipper gives notice of his intention to ship said valuable package, and thereafter in the bill of lading fully sets forth the nature and value of said package. In this instance neither of these requirements was met, the evidence disclosing that the watch was referred to in the bill of lading as one "paper package."

ST. LOUIS.—The Republican says: Steamboats are now carrying flour from St. Louis to New Orleans for twenty-five cents a barrel, and the railroads are carrying it to Boston for $1 30 per barrel—the distance being about the same, 1,200 miles. The rates for grain are respectively: To New Orleans, by water, 12½ cents per hundred; to Boston, by rail, 65 cents per hundred. A little comparison of these two rates shows that the steamboats are carrying five barrels of flour to New Orleans for the same price that the railroads charge for carrying one to Boston, and that the boats are carrying five bushels and a fraction of corn for the same price that is charged by rail for one bushel the same distance. Steamboatmen complain of the present low rates, 12½ cents a hundred, or $2 50 a ton, at which they are now carrying freights; still these rates show what can be done when there is plenty of water in the river and navigation is easy; and they show, too, how important it is to the grain-growers of the West to have sufficient water in the rivers at all seasons of the year. The difference between 12½ and 65 cents per hundred is $10 45 per ton—a sum which, calculated on one-half the Western produce that passes down the Mississippi and its tributaries, would, in a few years, pay the cost of all the improvements needed to secure easy navigation at all seasons of the year.

PROPOSALS.

PROPOSALS FOR POSTOFFICE ENVELOPES.

POSTOFFICE DEPARTMENT,
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 14, 1873.

SEALED PROPOSALS will be received at this Department until THURSDAY, the 19th day of June, 1873, at 12 o'clock M., for furnishing, in such quantities and at such times as may be ordered by the Department, Postoffice Envelopes, for a period of one year, commencing on the 1st day of July, 1873, to wit:

For Official Letters and Returns.

No. 1, size 3⅛ by 5½ inches; estimated number required annually 5,000,000.

No. 2, size 3⅞ by 6⅜ inches; estimated number required annually, 750,000.

No. 3, size 4 by 9 inches; estimated number required annually, 1,250,000.

No. 4, size 4⅞ by 10⅜ inches; estimated number required annually, 500,000.

For Registered Packages.

No. 5, size 5 by 10⅜ inches; estimated number required annually, 1,000,000.

The estimates given are intended as a guide to bidders. The Department may require more or less of each kind as the service may demand.

Bids must be made for each kind of Envelope (official and registered packages) separately, and the contract will be awarded for each kind to the lowest responsible bidder.

Samples of the different sizes and styles of Envelopes required, together with blank forms for bids, will be furnished on application to the Third Assistant Postmaster General.

The envelopes must strictly conform in size, quality of paper, gum used, and make, to the samples, the gumming on the flaps or lappets to be done in the best manner by hand. The envelope must be banded in parcels of twenty-five, packed in strong pasteboard or straw boxes, securely bound with linen or cotton cloth on the corners and edges, each to contain not less than 250 of sizes Nos. 1 and 2, and not less than 100 of the other sizes, or otherwise, as may be ordered, the boxes to be wrapped in strong manilla paper, and properly sealed, so as to bear safe transportation by mail to postmasters. When required to be delivered at the Department, the wrapping may be dispensed with, in the discretion of the Postmaster General.

When 2,000 or more Envelopes are required to fill the order of a postmaster, or when large lots are ordered to be sent to the Postoffice Department, they must be packed in strong wooden cases and properly addressed to the bidder. Less than 2,000 are required to be sent by mail, proper labels of direction must be placed on each package; all to be done by the contractor without additional charge.

The Envelopes must be delivered in such quantities as may from time to time be required to fill orders of postmasters or of the Department, and be delivered either at the postoffice in the city where the accepted bidder resides, or at this Department, as the Postmaster General may direct, free of cost for packing, labeling, and delivering; the whole to be done under the inspection and supervision of an agent of the Department.

All the Envelopes herein described must bear such printing as the Postmaster General may direct, and the Registered Package Envelopes will be required to be printed in Vermilion or some other approved brilliant color.

The Postmaster General reserves the right to reject any and all bids if in his judgment the interests of the Government require it.

Each proposal must be signed by the individual or firm making it, and be accompanied by a guarantee certified to be responsible and sufficient by the Postmaster or United States Attorney where the bidder resides, that the bidder shall, within ten days after being called upon to do so, execute a contract to furnish promptly, and in quantities as ordered, the article or articles awarded to him, to be accompanied by a bond with approved security, in a penalty of not less than twice the contract price of all the articles estimated to be furnished by said bidder, conditioned upon the faithful performance of the same.

Proposals unaccompanied by such guarantee will not be considered.

The Postmaster General reserves to himself the right to annul the contract if in his judgment there shall be a failure to perform faithfully any of its stipulations, or in case of a wilful attempt to impose upon the Department Envelopes inferior to the samples. The failure to comply with any one order under the contract will operate as a forfeiture of the entire penalty of the bond under the 7th section of the act of Congress, approved August 26, 1842, entitled "An act legalizing and making appropriations for such necessary objects as have been usually included in the general appropriation bills without authority of law and to fix and provide for certain incidental expenses of the Departments and offices of the Government, and for other purposes," (U. S. Statutes at Large, Vol. 5, page 526;) or the Postmaster General may, in his discretion, direct the purchase in open market of such quantities of Envelopes as it may be necessary to supply the deficiency caused by such failure, and charge to the contractor or contractors fifty per centum of the price which it shall be found necessary to pay for such articles.

Bids should be securely enveloped and sealed, marked "Proposals for Post Office Envelops," and addressed to the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Post Office Department, Washington, D. C.

The Crisis in Spain—Resignation of the Figueras Ministry.

MADRID, June 10.—Senor Orense has resigned the Presidency of the Constituent Cortes. At the Cabinet council to-day the finance bills prepared by Senor Tutau were rejected. The Ministers afterwards tendered their resignations and during the afternoon the Cortes entrusted to Senor Figueras the organization of a new Ministry. After consultations with his friends and with leading members of the Cortes, Senor Figueras reported that he was unable to form a Cabinet. The crisis continues and has a most depressing influence on funds. The Cortes holds another session to-night, when it is probable that Senor Nicolas Salmeron will endeavor to organize the government, the members of which he will select exclusively from the Right. Should he fail, the Deputies constituting the majority of the Cortes will hold a meeting to-morrow and determine on measures for the settlement of the crisis.

The Gaceta publishes a report that the Cura of Santa Cruz has abandoned the cause of Don Carlos and proclaimed a Catholic republic, with Calvera as President.

The Ascot Races in England.

LONDON, June 10.—The annual races on Ascot Heath commenced to-day, and were attended by a great crowd of people. The prominent races of the day were runs for the Prince of Wales stakes, Ascot stakes and the gold vase. The Prince of Wales stakes was won by Kaiser, Gang Forward second, and Combat third; nine horses ran. Ulan was the victor in the run for the Ascot stakes, Houghton came in second, and Vanderdecken third; the betting just before the race was nine to twelve against Ulan, two to one against Houghton, and six to one against Vanderdecken; nine ran. The gold vase was won by Thorn, Hanna second, and Struan third; seven horses ran.

The Financial Question in Spain.

MADRID, June 10.—The members of the Cortes are opposed to a forced paper currency. It is probable that a voluntary national loan will be called for and in case of its failure, the loan will be forced.

Rumored Recall of a German Minister.

PARIS, June 10.—It is said that Count Von Arnim, German Embassador, has been recalled, because he made unnecessary calls upon President McMahon.

Freedom of the Press in France—Sensation in the National Assembly.

VERSAILLES, June 10.—In the Assembly this afternoon the Left submitted an interpellation in regard to the suppression of Le Corsaire newspaper by orders of the Military Governor of Paris. M. Gambetta caused a tremendous sensation by reading a Ministerial circular, dated 4th instant, addressed to the Prefects of departments. The document inquires minutely into the position of the provincial press and suggests confidentially the employment of subsidies and such other means of evidence as can be secretly brought to bear for its control. M. Beule, Minister of the Interior, admitted the authenticity of the circular and accepted the responsibility for issuing the same. After a protracted scene of confusion and excitement, a motion supporting the government was carried by a vote of 389 yeas against 318 nays. The result shows that the coalition of the conservatives is still unbroken.

Grist and Saw Mill and Dwelling, Near Massillon, Ohio, Burned.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

MASSILLON, OHIO, June 10, 1873.

About eleven thirty last night a grist and saw mill, about three miles west of Massillon, owned by [illegible] Young, was totally destroyed by fire, with all its contents. A dwelling house near by took fire from sparks and burned to the ground; almost all the furniture was saved. No insurance on the house. The mill was insured in the following companies: Allemania, Cleveland; Sun, Cleveland; North Missouri, St. Louis; two thousand dollars in each. No estimate of the loss is given. The cause of the fire is not known.

Destruction of an Elevator—Another Incendiary Fire.

CINCINNATI, June 10.—A fire occurred to-night shortly after nine o'clock in A. Buchanan & Co's elevator, corner of South and Water streets. Loss total—elevator cost $28,000 and was valued at $20,000; insurance $10,000 in Cincinnati companies. The boiler of the elevator burst.

During the fire an alarm came from the same box as the fire on Sunday. Fifty thousand people are estimated to have flocked to see it. The fire started near the boiler room, but it is thought by some to be the work of an incendiary. The engines had the fire totally extinguished in an hour. A brisk rain was falling at the time.

The Cholera at Memphis Increasing.

MEMPHIS, June 10.—The cholera is undoubtedly increasing. The interments to-day were eighteen against eleven yesterday, while the undertakers had received at six o'clock orders for fourteen for to-morrow. The weather continues cloudy, hot and sultry. Hon. Jacob Thompson, Secretary of the Interior under Buchanan is dangerously ill with the cholera.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.

Article on Legislature Disposed of—Impeachment and Removal from Office—Counties, &c.

In the Constitutional Convention, Monday afternoon, the remaining sections of the article on Legislature were considered. The sections agreed to related to qualifications of legislators, to make public defaulters and other criminals ineligible for the Legislature, and to regulate the routine of legislative business.

Upon the nineteenth section, increasing the Senate to fifty members and the House to one hundred and fifty members, the Convention went into Committee of the Whole for general amendment, when a number of propositions for the enlargement of representation were submitted and ordered to be printed. Without action the committee rose with leave to sit again.

The article on impeachment and removal from office, containing only four sections, was read a second time and referred to the Committee on Revision.

The article on counties, townships and boroughs was taken up, and without action on the first section the Convention adjourned.

Yesterday, in the absence of President Meredith, Mr. Walker, of Erie, called the Convention to order. The consideration of the article on townships and boroughs was resumed. The first section reads:

"No new county or counties, or either of them, from which it shall be taken, shall have less contents than four hundred square miles, nor shall any county be formed of less contents; nor shall any county be formed or established containing a less population than twenty thousand inhabitants; nor shall any line thereof pass within less than ten miles of any county seat of the county or counties proposed to be divided."

Mr. Lawrence, of Washington, moved to amend, that no new county shall be erected until the same shall be approved by three-fifths of all the voters within the sections of counties taken to form the new one.

Pending debate, the Convention took a recess.

Committee on Appeals.

The committee of the City Councils on appeals from assessments met last evening, Mr. S. P. Fulton in the chair.

The committee discussed the question of the work before them, relative to hearing appeals on the assessments of the Board of Revision, and ordered the printing of the proper blanks for appeals.

There being no further business, the committee adjourned to meet again Tuesday evening.

It is again necessary to call the attention of property owners to the fact that they will only be taxed on one ninth of the cash value of their property as fixed by the Board.

A Hint to Housekeepers.

In some cities it is the custom among housekeepers who leave their dwellings vacant for the summer season, to notify the police of the fact, and request them to keep closer watch on their premises. If this were attended to here there would probably be fewer robberies of vacant dwellings. When a policeman is aware that a certain dwelling is wholly unoccupied, he can then safely arrest any person whom he may find upon the premises, or call to account those who may be seen lurking about the place. In the absence of such information, thieves might prowl about the premises without much fear of molestation. The measure is a precautionary one, which might be adopted here with good results. Certainly no harm could come from such notification, which should be given to the Chief of Police.

Found Drowned.

The body of an unknown man was found yesterday morning floating in the Monongahela river above Saltsburg. Coroner West was notified and held an inquest in the afternoon. The deceased was apparently about fifty years of age, and had been in the water but a few hours when found. Following is a description of the person and clothing: Iron gray hair, slightly bald in front, five feet four inches in height, light striped pants, dark vest, striped calico over-shirt, white woven under-shirt, fine boots. About two hundred yards above the point where the body was found, the hat and coat of deceased were hid in the bushes. In the pockets were a pair of spectacles, a pipe and some tobacco. The man had been seen about Saltsburg, but no one knew who he was or where he came from. The body was taken to the undertaking establishment of J. A. Russell in Braddock township for identification. Verdict, "Suicide by drowning."

Music in the Air!

Last evening, the Park Commission of Allegheny met for the purpose of considering the proposition of the citizens looking to a supply of music in the parks. A committee of citizens had offered to defray the expenses of the music, if the Commission would erect a suitable platform for the band. This was bringing the matter to a rather fine point and it was believed that the whole question would be definitely, favorably and popularly settled last evening. But Commissions, especially Park Commissions, have their little ways from which they do not depart for trifling reasons. A committee consisting of John Farr, Jr., Alfred Slack and Robert Lea were appointed to confer with the Peoples' Committee, who are Messrs. O. O. Phillips, J. D. Lang, C. B. Herron and R. C. Gray. These committees are to "confer." This very night they will meet and "confer." The people can make no more magnanimous offer, and all the Commission has to do is to build a platform and allow the band to play, but it is deemed the proper thing that the contracting parties should "confer." In the West Park they are to do it—the pavilion is the appointed trysting-place—and, there, if anywhere, the city Commissioners are to be successfully wooed. That this flirtation extraordinary may result in more substantial success than has attended many others when the pavilion has seen, will be the wish of good citizens in both cities.

Mrs. Gier is Heard.

Monday morning we noticed the arrest of Mrs. Gier, of Allegheny, charged with selling liquor on Sunday, and keeping a disorderly house. Having given bail for a hearing, and being anxious to have one, Mayor Callow accommodated her last evening. The outer office was crowded with men and boys, who seemed to have had an introduction to Mrs. G., and to sympathize with her in her present extremity. With Mrs. Gier to the hearing came Mr. Jacob Stuckrath, and John Chess, Esq., each gentleman claiming to be the sole attorney of the defendant. These counter claims presented a very delicate issue for his Honor to pass upon at the outset, but he finally concluded to recognize Esquire Chess, as he came nearer to being a lawyer than his rival. If Mrs. Gier showed any preference in the matter, she rather leaned towards Mr. Stuckrath, but she quietly acquiesced in the decision of the court, and the case went on. The witnesses for the prosecution were cross-examined with considerable shrewdness by counsel for the defense, and objectionable evidence was frequently checked at his instance. Mr. Stuckrath, too, insisted on interrupting the witnesses and putting in strong affidavits of defense from time to time, till the Mayor threatened to lock him up if he did not desist, and then he withdrew to the rear office where all temptation to speak for injured female beauty and innocence would be put far from him. The evidence adduced made out, to the mind of the Mayor at least, a prima facie case, and despite the eloquence of her able defenders, Mrs. Gier was held in five hundred dollars bail upon each information for her appearance at court. Occasionally there is much richness over in Allegheny.

LIBEL SUIT.

A Member of the Pittsburgh Bar Prosecutes the "Dispatch" Newspaper.

Yesterday morning William Linn, Esq., of this city, and a member of the bar, brought a criminal suit for libel, before Alderman Smith, of Allegheny, against Messrs. O'Neil and Rook, editors and publishers of the Pittsburgh Daily Dispatch. Mr. Linn complains of an article published in the Dispatch of the 29th of April, in which it was stated that he had been arrested and taken to the Washington county jail on an attachment for contempt, in not paying over certain moneys in his hands as administrator of William Greer, deceased. The alleged offence was repeated in a second article published a few days later, in which Mr. Linn was playfully referred to as "A legal Modoc." The press and the bar of the county will watch the developments of this suit with much interest.

COURT PROCEEDINGS.

United States District Court—Judge McCandless.

Samuel McClymonds, of Butler county, a bankrupt, having complied with all the provisions of the act, received his final discharge.

James M. Hartford, of Pittsburgh, filed a petition for the adjudication in bankruptcy of John Hoffman, of Allegheny city. The Court made the usual order. On motion of solicitors for petitioning creditors, and on petition for an injunction filed, a preliminary restraining order was issued, and the 7th prox. appointed for hearing said application.

In the matter of George W. Rockwell, of Erie, bankrupt, the time for filing schedules of liabilities was extended to the 20th inst.

In the matter of Reese, Perry & Co., of Venango county, bankrupts, a rule was granted to show cause why the adjudication of M. Augustus Perry, one of the said bankrupts, should not be revoked, and in the meantime all proceedings stayed.

In the bankruptcy case of Frazier & Frye vs. John V. McDonald, the hearing on rule to show cause why proceedings should not abate on account of the death of the debtor, was continued until after the Williamsport Court.

In the case of S. J. Irwin and others vs. the steamboat "S. J. Baker," Leo Baumgartner was allowed to file an intervening libel.

In the case of James Gray and others vs. the steamboat J. Sharp McDonald, Wm. D. Reno was allowed to file an intervening libel.

In the case of the United States vs. 5,500 cigars, a decree of forfeiture was entered.

In the cases of the United States vs. John Coulter and the United States vs. Robert W. Vincent and others, judgment was entered in favor of the United States in default of decrees being entered.

A venire facias was ordered for forty-four petit jurors, returnable at Erie on the 21st of July next.

The Court adjourned to meet to-morrow morning at nine o'clock, an hour earlier than usual.

Quarter Sessions—Judge Collier.

In the case of Henry Nusty, charged with assaulting a minor son of Richard Walsh, the jury is out.

A nolle prosequi was allowed in the case of James McGinty, charged on the oath of Wm. Sheiham with assault and battery.

In the case of Robert Owens, charged with the involuntary manslaughter of Mary Jane Cousin, a verdict of not guilty was returned.

A nolle pros., upon payment of costs, was allowed in the case of Clark Abraham, charged with riot.

John Laufman, charged by Elizabeth Laufman with assault and battery, was found guilty.

In the case of Jos. H. Butler, charged, on oath of Lillie White, with fornication and bastardy, a nolle pros. was allowed upon the payment of the costs by the defendant.

In the case of William Davidson, charged by Samuel Aber with assault and battery, the jury returned a verdict of not guilty, and directed that the costs be divided.

CITY MATTERS IN BRIEF.

INTERESTING meeting of the Central Board yesterday.

LAST Sunday three thousand persons were carried over the Mt. Oliver inclined plane.

THE report of the bribery and corruption investigation will be read with interest, and the Penn avenue act will suffer a fall in public estimation.

CHARLES B. STRAIN, of the Fifth ward, will likely be the candidate of the Democracy for Jury Commissioner. Mr. Strain will make a good commissioner.

JOHN KELLY, implicated in the riot in the Fifth ward on Sunday evening last, was fined $50 yesterday by the Mayor, and in default was committed to jail for sixty days.

A SAD accident occurred last evening on Second avenue, near lock number one, resulting in the severe injury of a man whose name we are unable to learn.

REV. ALEXANDER CLARK, of the Methodist Recorder, will deliver the annual address at the Pleasantville Academy, Fairfield county, Ohio, on Thursday of this week.

MR. CHARLES S. GREEN, Collector for the Allegheny Valley Railroad Company, who has been visiting his friends in Philadelphia, has returned and will resume his duties to-day.

ABOUT one o'clock yesterday afternoon the soot in a chimney off Washington street, between Wylie and Webster avenues took fire and occasioned an alarm from box 31. No damage was done.

HILAND AVENUE is to be paved by Messrs. J. L. & W. H. Hastings by October 1st. The contract for the pavement has not yet been given out, and the kind of pavement has not been decided upon.

COL. S. P. H. LINN, formerly of this city, but now one of the editors of the Marquette Mining Journal, has been laid up for some time with the small-pox, but, we are glad to learn, is rapidly convalescing. We hope he will not be pitted, however much he may be pitied.

THE Allegheny Board of Health failed to gather a quorum last night. Health Officer Hoch is attending to his duties, and asks that all complaints of nuisance and unhealthy indications be made to him personally with names, numbers, and localities definitely set forth.

FIVE cows have recently been stolen from the stable of a man on Cliff street. Read the advertisement of the loser in another column. He calls it "strayed" in the hope that the thief may be induced to return his pets. They are more than kin to him and all of the kind he had.

AN AMATEUR statistician wants to know if anything ever happened at Pittsburgh. Yes, Horace Greeley made a speech there once, but the nation repudiated him for it.—Chicago Post.—Yes, and Pittsburgh had a big fire before Chicago had grown out of its swaddling clothes.

THE candidates before the Central Board for the two positions of music teachers required by reason of the addition to the city of the south side districts were E. M. Cargo, G. W. Huey, Alfred McCabe, James Creighton, Mr. McCollon, and Mr. Hutchinson. Messrs. Cargo and Huey were elected.

IT is said that in case the appeals to court relative to the assessments under the equalization ordinance should be successful, that the assessments will then come upon the full cash valuation. Those who are fighting this measure should look into this matter, and if the report is correct, "stand from under."

BRIBERY AND CORRUPTION.

How Paving Contracts are Bought.

Investigation Into the Butler Street Contract—Damaging Evidence Against Certain Contractors—Slight Evidence on the Point Contested—The Commissioners Examined—They Tell How They Were "Approached."

The special committee appointed under a resolution introduced in Councils by David Kirk, Esq., to investigate the letting of the contract for the grading, paving and curbing of a portion of Butler street under the Penn avenue act, met last evening at the Clerk's office in Municipal Hall and organized by the election of David Kirk Chairman, City Clerk Morrow acting as Secretary. There were quite a number of contractors present, besides city officials and others. We may state that the contest appears to be really between the owners of the patents of the Wykoff pavement and the owners of the Locust block pavement, the former having obtained that contract. The Commission in awarding the contract stood three to two in favor of the Wykoff. The evidence, as will be seen in our full report given below, shows that bribery was attempted, but it will be noticed that while it is but slight as to the successful bidders in this case, it bears hard on some of the others, and shows that there is corruption in these lettings of heavy contracts, competition stirring up the most desperate efforts between the contestants.

THE ORGANIZATION.

On motion of Mr. Riddell, Mr. Kirk was called to the chair.

The Chairman stated the object of the committee meeting to be to investigate the award of the contract for paving Butler street. He then read the preamble and resolution adopted by the Councils, and under which the committee was appointed.

Mr. Riddell moved to proceed to the examination of the Commissioners under oath. Adopted.

The Chair, with the consent of the committee, appointed Mr. Riddell to conduct the examination of witnesses.

TESTIMONY OF THE PRESIDENT OF THE COMMISSION.

Mr. President Lyons was sworn and testified as follows:

Am one of the commissioners for the improvement of Butler street; the commission is composed of R. E. Breed, George Bendle, Wm. Smith, Joseph Erny and myself; the commission organized with myself as chairman and R. E. Breed as secretary; advertised for proposals for grading, paving and curbing the street; received bids (the secretary produced the minute book of the Commission, showing their proceedings and the bids); awarded the contract yesterday, Monday, June 9th, at half past eleven o'clock; the contract was awarded to O'Neil, Flinn & Co., the pavement being the Wykoff pavement; their bid was not the lowest one; there was a difference of twenty cents per yard on the grading; the Commission stood three for and two against the award; the price for paving was the same as the Locust block, without guarantee as to durability; the contract will amount to about $115,000.

Question—Were you approached at any time as a member of the Commission with inducements of any kind to make certain awards?

Answer—Yes, sir, I was.

Question—State, please, what took place.

Mr. Lyons—As to this or any other contractor, or by other bidders?

Mr. Riddell—Approaches by any contractor.

THE FIRST OFFER.

Witness—The first time that I was approached was in my own office by a contractor whose name is B. S. Koll; he was in my office, and from a draft was measuring my front on Butler street—Citizens' oil refinery, about six hundred feet front; he then showed me a model of the lock-block; told him I liked it as well as any pavement I had seen. After talking a little while he said to me, "You being President of the Commission if you go for my pavement your front will cost you nothing to have it paved;" did not agree to that; told him I was not after anything of that kind; wanted to pay as much as any other; told him after that I could not go for his pavement, although I liked it.

"JUMP INTO THE HALF OF IT."

Next, Mr. Jared M. Brush introduced me to Mr. O'Neil; he asked me if I was one of the commission, and I then asked him what he could do for us. He asked "how much is your front?" and when I said six hundred feet, he said, "Oh, that's too much, but I guess we can jump into the half of it." I told him I could do better than that, as I had been offered the whole front. A day or two after that Mr. Brush asked me if I could vote for the Wykoff pavement, and I said I could not, when he remarked that we could get our whole front paved for nothing. I answered that I would not have that, and he said I was just right in refusing it.

MONEY TALKED OF.

The next man that spoke to me about it was Mr. Yeager, of Market street; he said he was asked if I could be reached with money; he had replied that they had better keep their hands off that; about three days before the vote Mr. James Bown in the office stated that there had been a gentleman in that morning asking if I could be reached with money; if I could there was $2,000 in it for me; asked Mr. Bown what kind of a pavement they were offering for, and he said a soft wood pavement.

OFFERS TO OTHERS.

Those were all the offers I had; Mr. Breed told me that he was approached and had the offer of the paving of his front free; saw a party whispering in his ear just before I asked him the question; it was B. S. Koll; he represented Shaw's patent pavement.

The morning before we went into the election down in Mr. Breed's office I was looking over memorandum of different bids that I had, with Wm. Smith another commissioner and I was calling his attention to them and telling him of the bribes and he said he has the offer to have his front paved also; didn't say what pavement.

Did not have any offer from Mr. Flinn at any time.

To Mr. Sample—Mr. Brush is concerned in the Citizens' Oil Refinery.

By Mr. Moore—Do you know whether any of the Commission received any money?

Answer—No, sir, I do not.

Witness continued: Mr. Bown afterwards told me the name of the party but asked me not to say anything about it.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

Mr. Barton, who represented Messrs. O'Neill, Flinn & Co., then cross examined the witness.

The conversation with Mr. O'Neill took place at City Hall steps; I put the question, what will you do for us?

Question—Was not Mr. O'Neill's answer in jest?

Answer—I thought he was in earnest—that he would pave one-half for us for nothing; think Mr. Brush was in hearing, and others might have been; he said he would jump into the half of it for me; told him I had an offer for the whole of it; don't know that I showed indignation; was not approached by Locust block men in any way; don't know what Mr. Yeager represented.

SECRETARY OF THE COMMISSION EXAMINED.

Richard E. Breed was next sworn, and testified as follows:

Am Secretary of the Commission (witness read the lists of bids and the action of the Commission in awarding the contract). The bids were as follows:

	Per sq. yd.
B. S. Koll, attorney, for Shaw patent	$2 90
R. S. Robinson, Stowe patent	2 75
W. F. Dunn, Nicolson patent	2 59
C. W. Lewis, Nicolson patent	2 25
K. Bracken, cobble stone	1 55
O'Neill, Flinn & Co, Wykoff	2 75
J. H. & W. H. Hastings, locust, guaranteed ten years, $3; without	2 75

The calculation of the principal bids were as follows:

Locust block (Hastings), with guarantee	$118,321 80
" " without "	119,595 80
Wykoff (O'Neill, Flinn & Co.)	116,488 12
Nicolson patent (Mr. Lewis)	122,006 70

Witness claimed before the Commission that the bond was not properly made out; that it was good enough for $20,000, but not for the faithful fulfillment of the contract; asked that it be submitted to the City Attorney, but Mr. Smith moved that it be accepted, and the motion carried.

(Some discussion occurred as to the bond, who made it, &c., and it appeared that this as well as other bonds were filled out by a clerk in the Engineer's office. The question of the reliability of the bondsmen was not disputed).

"APPROACHES."

Witness proceeded: I wanted to fight shy of approaches and be able to say that I had not been tried, but this one man had waylaid me at different places, and the morning we opened the bids, (30th May) he buttonholed me at City Hall and whispered in my ear: "You stand for our pavement and your front shan't cost you anything." This man was, I believe, Mr. B. S. Koll; I have 375 feet; did not agree to it; no other approaches were made to me; don't know of any others; I was warned that we might be sold out; was not approached by O'Reilly, Flinn & Co.

I have not stated that I was offered $3,000; Mr. C. Yeager, whom Mr. Lyon speaks of, has the Locust pavement in front of his house in Allegheny, and is strongly in favor of that pavement; believe he is a strong friend of Mr. Hastings.

NO OFFERS BY THE WYKOFF MEN.

Mr. George Bendle was next sworn and testified as follows: Am one of the Commission; have twenty-one feet on Butler street; an offer was made to me by the lock-block pavement man; he told me if I would go for his pavement he would pave my front for nothing; declined the offer; was not approached, paid or promised anything by O'Neill, Flinn & Co., or any one other than the one stated.

"YOUR FRONT PAVED FOR NOTHING."

William Smith, sworn—Am one of the Commission; an offer was made to me, I was approached by a man representing the Shaw lock pavement, Mr. Koll; he wrote on a piece of paper, "go for our pavement and your front shan't cost you anything;" I have 250 feet front on Butler street; no other offers were made to me, and know nothing further except that Mr. Yeager spoke to me about the locust block; he said that there was no money in it, but said, "don't be fooled into soft wood pavement; go for the locust block;" don't know of any of the Commission receiving any money; the Wykoff pavement men have visited me about twice; never at my house; met on Butler street and on Penn avenue; was not with them at Mr. Bendle's or Mr. Erny's—might be mistaken however, after reflection witness remembered that during May he was with the Wykoff men—perhaps on a Sunday—it was Mr. O'Neill and I met Mr. Bendle; no offers were made directly or indirectly.

Question by Mr. Kirk—Had you and Mr. Bendle or Mr. Erny any private agreement.

Answer—We had not; had no agreement after the opening, none whatever.

Question—Did you state at the meeting that "we (you) were well organized; first knew of it there at the meeting when I may have said something like that.

Mr. John Moore objected to the manner of interrogation, as to where a man was on Sunday, whom he met, what was said, &c. He thought the witness had answered flatly and plainly the most pointed questions, and all knew that in letting contracts the contractor would solicit votes frequently.

Mr. Riddell and Mr. Jones suggested that the questions had been satisfactorily answered.

(Mr. Smith said that he was under the impression that he was voting for the best interest of the property owners and the lowest cost without guarantee.)

BIDS FOR REAL ESTATE.

To Mr. Barton—The locust block men visited me often; offered to buy a lot at a certain price if their pavement was taken. Witness detailed conversation with a party in the locust block interest. He was making inquiry where to get stone, gravel, &c. He visited my house and asked me out; went to my lots on the hill where there is stone, and he asked me what I would take for them; told him I would give the stone for nothing to get them away; asked me what I would take for the lots and I answered $250, each; he then said if they could get the award of the contract they could easily buy the lots. (This man is Hastings of the locust block.) He came out again and said they would take the lots; I referred Hastings to my real estate agent, Mr. Richards, and the latter was subsequently called upon and Hastings said he would take six of the lots if they got the contract for the pavement; he put up $500 with Mr. Richards, and after the awarding of the contract he lifted the money again.

To Mr. Kirk—Did not send word to Hastings on Friday or Saturday that I wanted the money up, did not ask him to buy thirty lots or even one lot.

AN OFFER REJECTED.

Joseph Erny, sworn—Am a Commissioner; with my son-in-law own 155 feet; was approached by Mr. Koll of the lock-block, he asked me how many feet I had and being answered he said, "If you do all you can for me you will get your paving done for nothing."

Mr. Riddell—What did you say?

Answer—Didn't say nothing; I swore at him; was not approached by any other and have no agreement or understanding whatever regarding the pavement.

All the Commissioners having been examined, the Committee, after consultation, decided to meet again on Friday evening next, and meantime, other witnesses are to be subpœnaed.

Mr. Barton desired to examine witnesses for Messrs. O'Neill, Flinn & Co., and Mr. O'Neill was sworn, but before the examination was entered into the Chairman decided it out of order.

The Committee adjourned, after making out a list of witnesses to be subpœnaed.

It will be seen that except the remark of Mr. O'Neill, testified to by Mr. Lyon, no evidence has been brought out against Messrs. O'Neill, Flinn & Co., owners of the Wykoff patent, while Mr. O'Neill claims that the remark was made jokingly, and that it was publicly made on the steps of the City Hall. The firm we may state is a responsible one, and nothing has heretofore been uttered to their discredit.

Sudden Death in Marshall.

Lawrence Huss, of Marshall township, died very suddenly at his residence, yesterday morning. The deceased was about thirty years of age, and leaves a wife and seven children. The coroner has received notice of the occurrence and will hold an inquest this morning.

A VALUABLE INVENTION.

Enameled Brick for Building Purposes—Large Manufactory Established in this City—Description of the Works—Enameling Process—Advantages of the Invention, Etc.

There has recently been organized in this city a company under the style of the "Pennsylvania Enameling Company," for the purpose of manufacturing a new article of trade, known as "enameled brick," for building purposes, under a patent obtained by Mr. D. W. Clark, of Connecticut. Valuable as is the common red brick, yet it has its disadvantages, and like everything else in these modern days, is susceptible of improvement. The process of enameling or glazing potter's clay, which becomes white when burnt, has long been known to the trade, but Mr. Clark has obtained the first patent ever issued for enameling red clay. In discovering this process he claims to have recovered one of the "lost arts," and supports his claim with at least a fair show of plausibility. It is not a matter of present concern, however, whether this art was known to the Chinese long ages ago, or whether they obtained an apparently similar result by some other combination of materials yet unknown; but it is important to know, in this utilitarian and æsthetic age, that Mr. Clark has conferred a lasting benefit upon mankind by his wonderful invention.

THE NEW ESTABLISHMENT.

Yesterday afternoon, upon invitation of Mr. T. K. McClorg, Superintendent of the Pennsylvania Enameling Company, a number of the representatives of the newspaper press of this city made a visit to the newly erected works, located in the Thirteenth ward, between Bedford and Webster avenues. The company has secured a large tract of ground at this point, which yields the best quality of brick clay, and have erected thereon capacious works for the manufacture and enameling of brick. The company is composed of a number of well-known business men and capitalists of this city, and the success of the enterprise is already assured.

The company will manufacture all their own brick, and their yard is the most perfect in the country. The drying furnaces have been constructed upon a new plan, devised by Mr. McClorg, and work most admirably. One of the most important and ingenious devices is that for getting rid of the damp air, which has been found so troublesome in drying ovens. By a proper arrangement of the draft, under the ovens, all the damp air is carried off as rapidly as it accumulates, and the drying process correspondingly hastened. These ovens have a capacity of forty four thousand brick, which can be rendered perfectly dry in fifteen hours. The hot air oven, from which the heat is supplied to the drying ovens, is one of the most approved pattern, and works admirably. The kilns for burning are the same as in ordinary use. The entire works are complete throughout, and so compact as to economize time and labor to an extraordinary degree.

THE ENAMELING PROCESS.

This is the great feature of the establishment, and that our readers may form a reasonably fair idea of it, we append a brief description: The minerals used are feldspar, flint, china clay and fluorspar. A fifth article is added, but this is a secret known only to the patentee. To make what is commonly known as porcelain, which is now largely used for lining cooking vessels, and various other purposes, the four articles above named are necessary, with the addition of lead. This enamel, owing to the presence of the lead, cannot be used upon red clay; and it has been held by chemists, and other scientific persons, that no enamel could be made without using lead as a constituent. It has been desirable to substitute something else for that metal, because to it is attributable the cracking or "crazing" so inseparably connected with the application of the enamel of which it forms a part. Mr. Clark has found a substitute for the lead, and therein lies the great value of his invention. The five articles being first prepared, are broken into small bits, and then ground to a fine powder under French burrs. This powder is placed in a suitable vessel, and mixed with water until it assumes the consistency of the thin "skim" used by plasterers. It is naturally white, but almost any color can be produced by adding the necessary material. When the enamel has been thus prepared, it is ready for application by simply dipping the face of the brick into it. The paste readily adheres, the spongy quality of the brick drawing it into the pores, and giving it a firm grip as it hardens. The brick, as soon as dipped, and while the enamel is still in a soft state, are placed in "saggers," or square boxes made of fire clay, and holding five bricks each, face side up, in which they are conveyed to the heating kiln, where they are subjected to a heat ranging between fourteen hundred and seventeen hundred degrees Fahrenheit, according to the quantity of flint in the enamel. The heat fuses the preparation, and the brick being in an exactly upright position, the enamel settles evenly on the face, and is ready to be removed and cooled for use. This kiln is the largest in the United States, and is constructed after the manner of a potter's kiln. It has a capacity for heating twenty one thousand brick at a time. There is also a test kiln for trying the quality of the material for making the enamel, but this we need not describe. The enameling building is one hundred and seventy-three feet long by forty feet wide, and supplied with all the requisite machinery.

ADVANTAGES OF THE INVENTION.

The advantages of this invention are numerous, only a few of which we need mention. The brick presents a most beautiful face—smooth, hard and polished. When laid in a wall they are impervious to water, and resist the destructive effects of the atmosphere. They are of greater durability than the ordinary brick, and will never require any outlay for paint, as they will always retain their color. They can be washed off like a piece of plate glass, if they should in time become discolored. By arranging different colors in the same front, the most beautiful effects can be produced in the way of ornamentation, doing away with stone, metal and other trimmings. The great advantage is in their cheapness. They can be delivered on the cars at sixty dollars per thousand. The ordinary pressed brick cost forty dollars per thousand. Philadelphia pressed brick are worth sixty dollars per thousand, exclusive of the cost of transportation. An ordinary three story front can be put up with these elegantly colored bricks at about one hundred dollars less than the cost of the Philadelphia brand, and about one hundred dollars more than our own pressed bricks. The enameled bricks are larger than the ordinary makes, which is also an item in their favor.

USES TO WHICH THEY CAN BE PUT.

The enameled bricks can be put to an endless variety of uses, and the enamel itself can be made available for many purposes. It can be applied to slabs for table and bureau tops, wash stands, etc., and would make an excellent facing for tombstones. The cheapest stone in the country is that from the quarries around Joliet, and this costs from eighty-five cents to one dollar per lineal foot. A substitute can be furnished by this enameling company, more beautiful and durable, for less than one-half the cost. There is no better article known for facing stone, as it is impossible for it to crack, flaw, or scale off.

The company has just received an order from the Building Committee of the Centennial Commission at Philadelphia, for 200,000 of these bricks, which they intend using in the construction of some of their buildings.

A prominent railroad officials designs using these bricks for lining the inside walls of some of the machine shops of the company, as a matter of economy in light—the shops being so dark as to require the almost constant use of gas in the winter months. The pure white enamel, for this purpose, would constitute an excellent reflector, and would render the shops as light as a parlor painted in white.

The enamel, by a tasteful combination of colors, would make a most elegant tile for halls, offices, etc., and there are many other uses to which the invention can be applied.

The strength of the enamel is surprising—a coating less than an eighth of an inch in thickness, upon the face of a brick, being sufficient to withstand the impact necessary to drive a large nail into a block of hard wood, without showing the slightest indentation or flaw.

Space will not permit us to dwell further upon the merits of this wonderful invention, which must ere long play an important part in the construction of our private residences and public buildings. It is gratifying to know that so important an enterprise owes its practical development to Pittsburgh capital and energy, and that the company have orders ahead already, which are sufficient to keep the works in active operation for a year at least. The patentee, as well as those associated with him, will no doubt realize handsomely, as they certainly deserve to do, since they have given to the world an invention the value of which can scarcely be overestimated.

Pittsburgh Opera House.

Another magnificent audience last evening enjoyed the rare entertainment given by the Tony Pastor troupe. The enthusiasm and good feeling continued and increased from the rising of the curtain to the going down of the same. Not one of the artists failed of the entire approbation of the critical listeners. A combination of this kind which can fully satisfy such audiences as have filled the Opera House for two nights, may call themselves artists anywhere without fear that their claims will be disallowed. Several gentlemen who sat in window seats and on the floor, last evening, wished they had heeded our warning to secure seats during the day. Don't lounge into the Opera House to-night at half past eight and expect to get a front seat. Every place is filled when the curtain rises at eight o'clock. Secure a good seat, go early and be refreshed.

TROTTING.

Opening of Friendship Driving Park—Interesting Trot To-day—Purse, $800.

The sporting season is rather backward this year but there are promises that it will be lively and interesting when opened. A number of exciting trotting matches are expected to come off soon, and the first is that to take place at Friendship Driving Park to-day. This beautiful and convenient park has been put in excellent condition and the match of-day will be the occasion of a grand opening. The proprietors have spared no expense to make it a delightful place of resort, and it is confidently expected that "Friendship" will be extensively patronized this summer and fall. Indeed it is the only suitable place within easy distance from the central portion of the city, and under good management it must become popular. For the opening an interesting trotting contest has been arranged, and the entries so far made are enough to warrant the entire success of the affair. The purse is $800 for horses that have never beaten 2:40. The arrangement is $500 for the first, $200 for the second and $100 for the third. The following trotters have been entered: Hot Punch, King William, Addie Perry and Toledo Boy.

Those who enjoy speed in horses should by all means be on hand.

The Anderson Sash Balance

Can be seen at No. 70 Smithfield street, where the agent takes great pleasure in explaining it to all parties. It has become so popular that a large majority of the new buildings being put up here and elsewhere are using these balances. They are simple and durable, and warranted for fifteen years. The expense of altering windows for the balance is trifling, and many have adopted it with perfect satisfaction.

Second Excursion Over the Narrow Gauge Railroad on Thursday, June 12.

The demand for property at Castle Shannon has induced the management to give notice that their second sale at Castle Shannon will be on Thursday, June 12. Over 125 lots have already been sold. The fact that this property was bought at low prices before the railroad was surveyed, enables the company to sell it at less than one-fourth the price readily obtained in other localities, double the distance from the city. Free trains will be run every hour, commencing at 9:30 A. M., on the day of sale. The Great Western band will accompany the 9:30 train, which will be the principal one of the day, and the most desirable on which to go. The property offered is as desirable in every respect as any in the market. Only six miles from the Pittsburgh postoffice, on a new, well built, narrow gauge railroad. It will pay you to attend this sale and buy a lot now while they are cheap. The investment must prove a good one, as the property is rapidly increasing in value. Don't miss the train at 9:30 A. M., Thursday, June 12. A. McIlwaine, Auctioneer.

SUMMER CLOTHING

NOW READY,

AT

The Boston One Price Clothing House

95 SMITHFIELD STREET.

SIGN—THE HUB.

The Rain Yesterday

Gladdened the hearts of husbandmen, and the immense quantities of cigars and tobacco that can be seen at the wholesale establishment of T. J. Wallace, 31 Sixth street, formerly St. Clair, makes the hearts of merchants rejoice. In this house may be had all the standard brands of Louisville tobacco, including Willis' famed Cavendish; Richmond tobacco in all shapes and prices; Paragon Navy, the sweetest and richest in the market, can be bought here, and Wallace's None Such Navy can only be found at this house in Pittsburgh; fine cuts and smoking tobaccos in large quantities and of all grades, and cigars by the hundreds of thousands.

If You Have Not Yet Selected

Your summer clothing, and are in search of a place to get them, we take pleasure in calling your attention to the first-class tailoring establishment of Mr. B. Tiegel, No. 53 Smithfield street, where a fresh line of the best quality of cloths, cassimeres, vestings, etc., has just been received. Mr. Tiegel has a peculiar knack of knowing just what kind of goods to buy for our people to give them the very latest Eastern touch in style, and also receives the very latest patterns among the first. He does the cutting himself, and knows how to do it, and probably this is the secret of the perfect fit of every suit he makes. Call and try him.

Lippincott's Keystone Soda Fountains.

In the above named apparatus the wants of the trade have been carefully studied, and we now present an apparatus in which purity, strength and durability are combined with unequaled workmanship and elegance of design. Before purchasing, please call and examine our samples, or send for catalogue. We are able to present many new and elegant designs, and this season have many novel features to produce never before brought out. We also deal in every article appertaining to the business, more specially a full line of extra choice fruit essences of the following flavors, in pound bottles, at low prices:

Vanilla,
Lemon,
Strawberry,
Orgeat,
Nectar,
Coffee,
Raspberry,
Pineapple,
Orange,
Sherbet,
Hock,
Chocolate,
Ginger,
Sarsaparilla,
Fruit Acid,
Peach,
Rose,
Blackberry.

In an effort to produce an attractive apparatus, we have not lost sight of the essential point of a good apparatus—viz: purity of production. This has had our closest attention. Every part coming in contact with soda water or syrups is thoroughly coated with pure silver or block tin. Don't forget to call at McClarran & McKennan's drug store, No. 85 Market street, Pittsburgh.

For Hotel Use.

Charles Stokes & Co.,

The celebrated Merchant Tailors of Philadelphia, invite an inspection of their unusually elegant stock of fine imported fabrics for men's wear. Every attention is paid to the workmanship and trimming of their garments.

The cutting is surpassed by none, and every endeavor is used to give perfect satisfaction. 841 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, under the Girard House.

A Leading Establishment.

The growing demand for vehicles of all kinds and descriptions has necessitated the enlargement of our wagon manufacturing establishments. Among those who have increased their facilities, and are prepared to do all kinds of work in their line of business, none bear a better reputation than the firm of C. Coleman & Son, Nos. 16, 17, 18 and 19 Marion avenue, Allegheny city. All work turned out by this firm is warranted to give satisfaction in every particular, and their prices being as low as elsewhere they solicit a share of patronage.

Roofing Iron.

The business of furnishing iron for roofs and iron-clad buildings has become one of vast importance in this city, and among the firms who enjoy a reputation second to none in this city for furnishing a very superior article, is that of Reese & Bissel, office and works No. 877 Liberty street. Their iron roof frames and corrugated sheet iron for roofs and sides of buildings has been tested in a great many cases, and has given the most complete satisfaction. The works of the firm are very extensive, and they are enabled to fill all orders with promptness and dispatch.

Enough of the 100,000 tickets issued for the THIRD GRAND GIFT CONCERT, in aid of the Public Library of Kentucky, having been sold to insure a full drawing, and the wish having been universally expressed that the 10,000 cash gifts offered should be drawn in full and paid in full without any scaling down, as heretofore, the management, with the concurrence of the trustees, have determined to allow ninety days more for the sale of the remnant of tickets left on hand. The concert and distribution advertised for April 8 is therefore postponed to Tuesday, July 8, 1873, on which day and no other, they will positively and unequivocally take place in Public Library Hall, Louisville, Ky.

The money to pay all these gifts in full is now upon deposit in the Farmers' and Drovers' Bank of Louisville, and set aside for that purpose, and can only be used for that purpose, as will be seen by the following certificate of the Cashier:

OFFICE OF FARMERS' AND DROVERS' BANK,
LOUISVILLE, KY., April 7, 1873.

This is to certify that there is in the Farmers' and Drovers' Bank to the credit of the Third Grand Gift Concert, for the benefit of the Public Library of Kentucky, five hundred thousand dollars, which has been set apart by the managers to pay the gifts in full, and will be held by the bank and paid out for this purpose, and this purpose only.

R. S. VEECH, Cashier.

The remnant of unsold tickets will be furnished to those who first apply (orders accompanied by the money always having preference over agents) at the following prices: Whole tickets $10; halves $5; and quarters $2 50; 11 whole tickets for $100, 56 for $500, 113 for $1,000, and 575 for $5,000. The music on this grand occasion will be the best that can be procured, and the gentlemen who count and place the tags and gifts in the wheels and superintend the drawing and keep the record of the drawn numbers will be chosen from the best known and most trustworthy citizens of the State. All will be so conducted as to be a perfect guaranty against complaint from any just source.

The payment of gifts will begin on Saturday, July 12, at 9 o'clock A. M. Tickets drawing gifts must be presented at room No. 4, Public Library building, where cash checks upon the Farmers' and Drovers' Bank of Louisville, or sight drafts upon the Fourth National Bank of New York, at the option of the holder, will be given for the tickets. All gifts not called for in 6 months from the drawing will be turned over to the Public Library fund.
